EXPRESSWAY WOULD SAVE WORKERS' TIME

Project Through City Planned To Open Direct Route To Industrial Plants.

(Editor's Note: This is the second of a series of articles on Mansfield's traffic and highway problems.)

By PHILIP GREENE

Mansfield's rapid growth as an industrial center with a prospective increase of 25 per cent in industrial employment when plant expansions are completed is being offered as one of the major arguments for the proposed $15,000,000 expressway through the city.

Meredith P. Lichtenwalter, former Ashland state highway engineer, who drew plans for the big program, pointed out that the convenient traffic outlet, leading from the southwest and west sides of the city to the industrial north and east sides, will make it possible for workers to get to their jobs in less time and without congesting downtown traffic in the morning and evening. The southwest section of Mansfield is being built up rapidly, with many workers erecting homes there. If they are employed at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company, Tappan Stove company or Westinghouse, they must drive all the way across the city twice a day.

Greene

"Mansfield is a fast-growing, modern industrial city of 42,488 people," Lichtenwalter's report says.

65,000 City Seen.

"It is a progressive city and many of its industrial companies are planning expansion of their plants. A 25 per cent increase in industrial employment, now totaling 15,252 persons, is foreseen on the basis of these planned expansions. It is probable that the population will be 55,000 in 1950 and 65,000 by 1960," the survey reports.

It points out that Route 42 is the main traffic line across Ohio from north to south and connects the state's two largest centers of population, Cincinnati and Cleveland.

It also declares that the highway conforms to a route of the tentative interregional system connecting Columbus, Cleveland, and Cincinnati and is on a route of the military strategic network of highways.

Important in that respect is its proximity to such vital installations as the Parsl Army

GRID PLAYERS FETED TONIGHT

Approximately 300 persons will join with the News-Journal tonight in paying tribute to the fine football records compiled by the 1946 football teams of Madison and Mansfield Senior high schools.

Eighty-two representatives of Senior High, the majority of them members of the Tyger football squad, and 53 from Madison high will swell the attendance at the 11th annual News-Journal football banquet at North Lake Coliseum at 6:30 p. m. to well over 400. The football squads will be guests of the newspaper.

"Bo" McMillin, coach of Indiana university, will be the principal speaker. As a climax to his talk, he will show technicolor pictures of the Nebraska-Indiana football game.

Other features of the program include the presentation of a "most valuable" player award to the member of each of the Senior and Madison high school teams selected by his teammates and the award of gold footballs to senior members of each of the two teams by Sam Fox, jeweler.

27 Die In One Day As 5 Planes Crash

Crashes involving five airplanes took 27 lives in the United States yesterday with only two survivors.

Eighteen persons, 15 passengers—five from Ohio—and three crew members, died in the flaming wreck of an Eastern Airlines Detroit-Miami passenger plane which crashed during a rainstorm in hilly country near Galax, Va.

William Ellis Keyes, jr., 25, of Boynton, Fla., the lone survivor, was dragged from the wreck by two residents of the community who saw the crash. He suffered shock, lacerations and burns.

The five Ohio victims included a 92-year-old great grandmother and two Cleveland women flying to Cuba for a vacation.

They were Mrs. Sarah Borgerman, 92, Northfield Center; Miss Mollie Huber, 36, Cleveland; Miss Rose Gometz, 40, Cleveland; Glen Rymer, 34, Akron; Herbert C. Miller, 23, Canal Fulton, Stark county.

Making First Flight.

Mrs. Borgerman was on the way to visit her son, Albert, in Lake Worth, Fla. She was making her first trip by air and a daughter, Mrs. William Lockhart, said "we thought it would make the trip easier for her."

Miss Huber, a secretary at the American Mattress company, and Miss Gometz, a secretary at the Ace Cigaret Service company, were bound for Cuba. They had taken their vacations together for many years.

Rymer was president of the Model Aire, Inc., builders of miniature planes, and had been scheduled to depart on an earlier ship. He took the later and fatal flight when he was unable to make connections.

Miller was a furnace installer who was flying to Coral Gables, Fla., to join his wife and 11-month-old son who were visiting Mrs. Miller's mother.

Planes Collide.

Five persons were killed when two planes collided over the Miami (Fla.) aviation center airport. One person was injured critically.

Miami Police Chief Karl Engel said the pilots attempted to land on opposite runways.

Another disaster in Florida cost the lives of two persons as an army training plane crashed near Cocoa in Brevard county, Fla.

A two-seated private plane crashed near suburban Van Dyke, near Detroit, killing its occupants, an Army Air Forces veteran and a student pilot. Witnesses said the plane went into a tailspin about 200 feet from the ground.

Shed No Tears, Girls — Van Is Still Eligible

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—Van Johnson, idol of the juvenile film fans, isn't going to marry Evie (Mrs. Keenan) Wynn after all.

Both Johnson't bobby sox followers—who raised a storm of protest—and the star's studio, M-G-M, have turned a vigorous thumbs down on the marriage, with the result that the romance is off.

Mrs. Wynn, who went to Sun Valley, Idaho, to establish residence for a divorce right after the first of the year, has returned home. Wynn welcomed her back, apparently without trace of hard feeling.

Johnson and Wynn are closest friends and have remained so despite the romantic situation.

$9,324 STILL NEEDED FOR F.H.

Success of Drive Dependent on Individual Gifts.

The success of Mansfield's $60,000 Friendly House drive by Wednesday is dependent upon response from industry and from "a great mass of contributions from individuals not contacted so far," Paul Endriss, campaign chairman, said today.

Today's total moved up to $50,676 as weekend mail contributions of $658 were received. This leaves $9,324 still to be donated by the Wednesday deadline.

Endriss said he felt the campaign would be successful, but that it depended largely upon contributions from those industries putting the drive into full swing this week. Individuals not contacted through their professions or at places of employment again were urged to mail their donations to the campaign headquarters in the R. E. Moorhead showrooms, Park Avenue west, or to the Friendly House.

Endriss added that a large number of campaign workers were expected to report contributions either today or Tuesday. Plans for the windup of the campaign will be laid tonight at a meeting of the general committee.

Additional contributors to the building fund, are: Brinkerhoff PTA, $75; Citizens National Bank and Trust company, $100; Nerby Piano House, $25; Sowash Dry Cleaning company, $50; Local 758, United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, CIO, $25; Mansfield Lions club, $25; and Delta Theta chapter, Delta Theta Tau sorority, $25.

COAL BATTLE SHOWDOWN DUE

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — With the nation facing another coal strike deadline in only 11 weeks, the legal battle between the United Mine Workers (AFL) and the government reaches a showdown before the supreme court tomorrow.

UMW Chieftain John L. Lewis has asked the court to cancel contempt convictions against himself and his union and fines of $3,510,000. The fines were imposed when Lewis failed to obey the government's injunctions restraining the UMW from striking in the government operated mines.

The union charged, in filing briefs Saturday, that the punishment handed down by Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough was a result of "public hysteria and political expediency."

The union contended that the government was no different than private industry and is prohibited from obtaining restraining orders by the Norris-LaGuardia anti-injunction act.

Westinghouse Wage Request Meeting Set

A contract calling for higher pay for CIO electrical workers at Westinghouse will be formulated next Sunday at a mass meeting of members, Joseph Hawkins, president of Local 711, said today.

The plan will then be forwarded to international union headquarters before being presented to company officials. Time and place of the Sunday meeting will be announced later this week.

Although no pay request increase has been announced by the union, it is expected to average between 27½ and 29 cents an hour.

An Associated Press report of negotiations for wage increases in New York stated that contract requests this spring will include a proposal that the Westinghouse corporation bear the complete cost of health and welfare insurance and pension plan. The union's contract with the company expires April 1.

Announcement of the meeting followed installation of union officers at CIO headquarters yesterday. Hawkins said that approximately 300 UEW members attended.

Installed at the ceremonies were: Hawkins, re-elected president; James Anderson, re-elected first vice president; George Christ, second vice president; Benjamin Contra, recording secretary; Thomas Flood, re-elected financial secretary; Martin Frank, re-elected treasurer; Glenn Hedges, re-elected hall guard; Jacob Campbell, three-year trustee; Russell Yarman, chief steward; and Robert Yeager, secretary to the steward council.

Members of the union grievance board are Robert Landfair, Louis Roth, both re-elected, Charles Zuber, Jack Conrad and John Sheets.

ESCAPE INJURY

LONDON — (INS) — Nine passengers and two crew members of a chartered British plane emerged unharmed today from a crash landing on the French beach near Cherbourg.

ARMY CONCEDES DRAFT'S DEATH

WASHINGTON —(UP)— High army officers conceded today there was little or no chance that congress would extend the draft beyond its March 31 expiration.

They pointed to the strong opposition expressed among both Republicans and Democrats after President Truman, in his state of the union message to congress, suggested that an extension might be necessary.

The War department still hasn't decided finally whether to go through the motions of requesting an extension. It is delaying the decision while waiting to see how its recruiting program works out.

Army officials feel they have done about everything possible now to stimulate recruiting. If the program falls short and a draft extension is refused, the army will insist that some other means of solving its manpower problems be devised.

It maintains that either its occupation tasks must be cut so that less than the 1,070,000 force set for July 1, 1947 can do the job, or means must be authorized to stimulate recruiting.

The army has signed up 1,078,065 volunteers from V-J day through Dec. 31, 1946. But of this total, only 549,698 are three year enlistments; 528,367 short termers start getting out soon. There were 183,119 who enlisted for one year, 325,082 for 18 months and 21,166 for two years.

NEW EXECUTIVE BINDS SELF TO RIGID ECONOMY

Discusses Major Problems of State in His Inaugural Address Today.

By HAROLD LISK

COLUMBUS —(INS)— An administration practicing rigid economy and advocating a flexible taxation system was promised Ohioans by Governor Thomas J. Herbert in his inaugural address today.

The 52-year-old Clevelander became the state's 56th governor since it was admitted to statehood in 1803. His oath-taking on the steps of state capitol building also returned the Republican party to power after a two-year lapse.

Herbert took over the reins of office from Frank J. Lausche, out-going governor and fellow Clevelander. The new chief executive defeated Lausche in the GOP election sweep last November.

After being sworn in by Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt, Herbert discussed briefly each of the major problems facing the state. He took up in order—schools, welfare, agriculture, highways, labor, state workers, tuberculosis and taxation.

Advocates Tax Cuts.

The time has arrived, Herbert declared, for the practice of rigid economy in the operation of government. He advocated that taxes imposed to meet any emergency should be decreased or discontinued when the emergency no longer exists.

"A reasonable surplus," he asserted, "is desirable. An unreasonable or excessive surplus, such as we now have, is undesirable. An overhauling of our state tax system is clearly indicated in order that we may accomplish a reduction in state taxes, where possible, a readjustment of tax revenues, and a decentralization of some of our taxes."

The new Republican governor campaigned on a promise of reduced taxes—including a lowering of the sales tax.

"The principle of levying heavy taxes for the sole purpose of creating a huge surplus," Herbert continued, "is unwise and dangerous to free representative government.

"Our taxation system in Ohio needs flexibility. The flow of revenue from the pockets of the taxpayer to the state treasury should be regulated automatically in accordance with the financial needs of the state."

Discusses Schools.

Herbert acknowledged the hard-pressed condition of the state's schools and school teachers. He promised that public education

PARTY LEADERS AT INAUGURAL

Richland countians dotted the crowd at the inaugural of Gov. Thomas J. Herbert in Columbus today.

Headed by Republican leaders, the county's delegation included Former Mayor Earl A. McFarland, Harry Hawley, former election board clerk; Mrs. Elizabeth Grubaugh, county chairwoman; T. A. Woodard, and William J. Johns, Richland county relief director.

The Richland county Republican women's organizations were represented by Mrs. D. L. Maxwell, Mrs. Pearl Scott and Mrs. Paul Bush.

Some of the Mansfielders drove to Columbus yesterday and others made the trip this morning in time to attend the ceremonies scheduled for shortly before noon.

Workers Quit As Army Aids In Food Tieup

London Tense As Sympathy Walkouts Spread Among Thousands After Government Calls Troops

LONDON — (AP) — The Labor government used 8,000 troops and sailors today to move strike-bound food to hungry Londoners, touching off a wave of sympathy strikes which involved more than 7,000 workers and threatened to mushroom to gigantic proportions.

Within 15 minutes of the arrival of army personnel at Smithfield market, the city's largest meat distributing center, more than 2,300 employes walked off the job in support of more than 15,000 truck drivers who started an unofficial strike last Monday and rejected pleas of union leaders to return to work.

The truckmen demanded a 44-hour instead of a 48-hour week, two weeks' paid vacations, half pay during illness and adjustment of overtime pay conditions. A 45-member wages board met in emergency session to consider the demands.

London was tense. All police leaves were cancelled and mounted constables accompanied the convoys of military trucks.

Long lines of army trucks poured into the city's east end past thousands of unsmiling persons at the curbs.

Almost immediately after the Smithfield workers struck, 3,000 laborers walked out at Covent Garden, chief vegetable market in London.

Convoys Move Food.

The government, risking the danger that the strike would spread throughout the metropolitan area, sent long convoys of army trucks to all the big market centers with orders to move accumulated food supplies to shops drained of stocks since the unofficial truck strike began last Monday.

Hundreds of other workers quit jobs in London and elsewhere.

Prime Minister Attlee, supported in the decision to use troops by the seven ministers whose departments were involved, called a special cabinet meeting for late today and another for Tuesday.

The transport strike had gravely shortened food supplies for the 10,000,000 persons in greater London, and spread to Liverpool, Leeds, Southampton and other major cities. Nearly 1,000 Bristol truckers quit and picketed depots and main roads.

Subway, bus and street car workers were reported grumbling in protest against the use of troops to replace striking truckers, but a union spokesman said they had not yet considered "sympathy action."

The striking truckmen belonged to the powerful Transport and General Workers' Union, the country's largest labor organization, which Ernest Bevin headed before he became foreign secretary.

Leaders Warn Men.

Strike leaders warned their men to "behave, the troops are only doing their job" and asserted that the strikers were determined to remain idle until all troops were withdrawn.

"It would be impossible for us to continue at work while blacklegs in uniform are doing the work of striking lorry (truck) drivers," a statement said. "If the use of troops is continued, we will consider taking action as far as retail distribution is concerned."

Already suffering from an acute meat shortage, greater London's 10,000,000 people also were threatened with a potato famine after the Covent Garden walkout. The city's potato stocks were described as "very low" and growers were reported withholding shipments pending developments.

GOP PLEDGES MARSHALL AID

General Takes His Oath As Secretary This Week.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Gen. George C. Marshall becomes secretary of state this week with assurances from Senator Vandenberg of Republican support on major diplomatic issues expected to arise during the months ahead.

Final plans for Marshall to take the oath as successor to James F. Byrnes are yet to be announced, but officials said privately that the ceremony probably would be held at the White House the latter part of the week.

Marshall, resting after 13 months of arduous diplomatic work in China, remained in Honolulu over the week-end and the exact time of his arrival was not known.

Speeches Cited.

Meanwhile, the pattern of his future tasks and something of the extent of the Republican support he can expect in striving for their accomplishment were made clear in speeches by Byrnes and Vandenberg, the chairman of the senate foreign relations committee.

Vandenberg, addressing the Cleveland Council on World Affairs Saturday night, spoke out for:

1. Congressional appropriations to carry on an American relief program in war-wrecked countries,
2. Rehabilitation loans for countries which need them, and
3. Continuance of tariff-reducing reciprocal trade agreements in some form.

Policy Shift.

The Michigan senator also urged a policy shift in China, saying the United States now should support the coalition of non-Communist parties backing China's new constitution.

This evidently would mean abandoning the policy which Marshall followed during his stay in China—a policy of equality between the Communists and the Nationalist Kuomintang which to date has run the government.

Byrnes, also speaking in Cleveland, declared himself more confident than ever that the United States "can achieve a just peace by cooperative effort" with other nations provided it would remain firm in upholding "the right."

DRIVE-IN MOVIE TO COST $90,000

A drive-in theater to cost $90,000 and accommodate 700 cars will be built on the Ashland road by the Central Drive-in Theater, Inc., of Cleveland, it was announced today in Cleveland by Adolph Ochs, general manager and director of the company.

Grading on the site, six miles from Mansfield on U. S. Route 42, has been going on for the past month, Ochs told the News-Journal in a telephone interview, and actual building of the screen will be started as soon as CPA approval is given.

"This drive-in will be the largest screen in Ohio," Ochs declared, "and it will be the first one in Ohio outside of Cleveland, for our company."

RAIN ON CITY'S WEATHER MENU

Although the stage was set today for a snowstorm, the weatherman said temperatures may climb enough to bring rain instead—and possibly freezing rain over sections of northern Ohio.

Moderate temperatures were forecast for tonight and tomorrow. Occasional light rain was predicted.

Highways in Mansfield and throughout the state were reported ice-free by the state highway department.

The low at Hayesville this morning was 22 degrees, while the high yesterday was 34.

MEETS TODAY

The Richland county On-the-Job Veterans' Farm committee was to meet at 4:15 p. m. today in the county superintendent's office. Members of the committee are County Supt. Boyd Robinson, George B. Ganyard, Guy L. Taylor, and W. S. Barger.

BLUM VISITS LONDON

PARIS — (U.P.) — Premier Leon Blum left by plane for London today. Blum's office said the trip was made "at the invitation of the British government." He left from Le Bourget airdrome in a British European Airways plane.

COURT CONFIRMS CURLEY'S GUILT

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The District of Columbia court of appeals today affirmed the conviction of Mayor James M. Curley of Boston on mail froud.

The court of appeals also affirmed the convictions of Curley's two associates, James G. Fuller and Donald Wakefield Smith, former member of the National Labor Relations board.

The court's decision was by a 2 to 1 vote. A dissenting opinion was filed by Judge Wilbur K. Miller. The three were found guilty in January, 1946, of using the mails to defraud through a war contract group known as Engineers Group, Inc.

REPORT ON SHORTAGES HINTS HAPPY DAYS ARE GOING TO BE HERE AGAIN

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— The commerce department peeked into the future today and forecast more meat, sugar, autos and whiskey in 1947.

It said there was expected to be enough meat in 1947 to supply every person with 150 pounds, more than at any time in the last 35 years.

While eggs, fresh vegetables and milk will be scarcer than last year, butter, fish and various canned foods should be more plentiful, the department said.

"Predictions on the production of passenger cars in 1947 vary from 3,750,000 to 4,250,000," the department reported. "However, large scale production may not be reached until the end of the second quarter of 1947. Truck output is expected to reach from 1,250,000 to 1,500,000."

"The radio industry expects to have an all-time high in 1947," the department's survey said.

Blended whiskey will be ample and brandy, rum and gin will be easily obtainable." Scotch, however, will still be scarce.

The total supply of lumber should hit 37,500,000,000 board feet, which, the department said, would come close to the year's requirements. Furniture will be produced in record lots, but supplies won't meet demand, and plumbing will remain scarce.

Other predictions:

Pepper will continue in short supply until imports increase.

DDT will be hard to get, but not other insecticides.

Penicillin and streptomycin will be more plentiful.

Shoe production will hit 500,000,000 pairs.

Iron and steel production will match demand by late 1947.

Textile production levels are expected to go to new highs, but wool production will continue to decline and there'll be a shortage of worsted fabrics.

Girl Friday Speaks Up

Memos of a Girl Friday—

DEAR WW: Wire signed Betty and Bogey from Hollywood says: "Alright, what's the story?" I assume that concerns Monday's opening line about them breaking one soon from Honolulu. Remember source? So we can ask him what-the-ell? . . . Wouldjez kindly ask your helpers to remember that you take the boos as well as the bows—and to be a little more careful or get on you D-D list? Thenx-veddy-mitch . . . Kay and I can get off'ly bored with some of your friends, bleeve us, kiddo, if you will pod'n the expression . . . Your shimage is in the skies. She took the 1 ayem . . . Latest Runyon list of donors most impressive yet. Sent list to Journal-American and accountants, bank, etc. I didn't include this morning's, but total has reached 100Gs.

* * *

What happens to Winchellines, did you say? . Well, in "Thrill of Brazil" two column quips show up in the otherwise dull film. They are: "I want to get out of this rut and into a groove," and: "I'm going in to see that character who hasn't any!" . . . In a Sabbath paper (under births) an engagement announcement was listed. Hah!

* * *

I just looked at the drivel you returned. Why don't you just chuck it on the floor or into any waste basket? . . . Kay and I agree you gave Benson too hard a shove. His copy didn't say Colby and Mervyn would wed. He said she was quitting the Selznick firm in April "to hook up with Mervyn LeRoy." You read it too fast. Oh, bladerdash! . . . Marriage brokers have raised their fees 40%, but that shouldn't worry clients. It ain't the initial cost—it's the yellimony . . . Add to the vomics' list the uninhibited script writer (or jirq) who introduced the character, "Peter Mole," on the Parkyakarkus program.

* * *

Please don't ever stop fighting these misfits out of show business. One said to me: "If I omit all my dirty gags on people, I have no act, and what'll I do?" . . . "Take poison!" I told him, "and make it a little easier for the rest of us" . . . Another asked me: "Does he mean we shouldn't tell any dialect gags?" . . . I said, "Of course not, you dope. Just don't use any that make people appear repulsive, conniving, unscrupulous or rotten—unless you make the character German or Jap" . . . We have had many complaints about a wag's (P. D.) gags about Irish and Jews on Allen's Alley and Top This.

* * *

We also have several squawks about W. H., who gives anti-Semites the ammunition they need. A repulsive caricature of a Communist tailor. It used to be funny but not now with all the hatred in the world . . . Lou Holtz in a radio interview (the other night) said he would not resort to any dialect gags that may offend—nothing anyone could complain about. So maybe the campaign is doing some good. Now get this from Variety's editor in my next paragraph. Variety will knock them all dead and should.

Your Girl Friday.

WESTBROOK PEGLER . . . . Fair Enough

Truman Sounds an Echo

WASHINGTON — When President Truman echoed the cry of the union racketeer against "punitive" and "vindictive" laws, he found himself again walking the picket line with the leg-breakers and black-mailers who live on labor but never for or by labor.

Just as the Bolshevik traitors decry "Red-baiting," so also the Joe Fays, the Brownes and Bioffs and hundreds of other dirty parasites have howled against every proposal to drive them out of the union movement.

Is that law punitive which forbids an employer to send sluggers at night to beat up workers who have undertaken to form a union? If so, then the Wagner act should be expunged for that reason alone. Are these laws vindictive which compel a corporation to account for its money and, particularly, forbid the company to dump a million, more or less, into a campaign to elect its own man governor and its own corporate officials to the legislature or congress?

These laws were passed to place restraints on reckless and corrupt business and they are regarded as punitive and vindictive only by those who are restrained from evil.

What are the proposals as to unions which would be regarded as punitive and vindictive?

THESE TERMS are applied to all proposals that are offered to curtail the powers of union bosses, to erase the union dollar-sign from the ballot and to protect the rights of the community and the individual worker. If the nation should wait for the sanction of the professionals of unionism no reform ever could be wrought. In their selfish judgment, all suggestions are punitive and vindictive.

Who would be punished, however, by a legal provision that a worker, who is compelled to join a union or starve, shall have a right to a fair trial, not by some group of underworld racketeers but by an impartial body, when he is brought up on charges of "un-unionlike conduct?" My friends in the union movement reproach me for taking extreme views when I speak of underworld racketeers as the controllers of unions. I acknowledge that these are not typical groups, although they are much more numerous than my union friends admit. These underworld gangs, be it remembered, do not become such until they have been publicly exposed, and thus many "typical" ruling bodies enjoy a false seeming of virtue until they are exposed. Others remain respectable indefinitely only because there are not enough man-hours in the lives of the newspaper reporters to attend to them. Be this noted, too, that the American Federation of Labor is forbidden by its constitution and by the jealousy of the little kings who command the internationals to eliminate crooks from its subordinate unions.

THIS BEING the acknowledged fact, it is clear for even President Truman to see that the worker and the community, and even the A. F. of L. itself, at present have no protection against racketeers and tyrants.

I am willing to waive the word "underworld" and direct the attack against those racketeers who are respectable but racketeers, nevertheless, such as Jimmy Petrillo, of the Musicians, and Dan Tobin, of the Teamsters. When a union collects money from employers for unnecessary work or for stand-by work which is not work at all and often does not even call for the presence of the idle stand-by, that is a racket. The principle here is that of the robber barons.

The limitations on the right to work cannot be judged by the sober conduct of the exemplary unions. They must be judged by the shocking extremes, for it is here that we see the evil dramatized, and yet Mr. Truman is one of those who would regard as punitive a law to limit these powers.

FREDERICK C. OTHMAN . . . On Anything

Shorts Just Won't Do

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — If the ladies kindly will turn their heads to avoid blushing, I will expound on my personal crisis in lingerie. I have exhausted all other means. The blue-white glare of publicity on my underwear is the last resort.

All my life, until recently, I have been unconcerned about my lack of hips. Did it matter that my middle was bigger? Not to me, it didn't because I wore union suits.

These hung from the shoulder. They did not depend on a waistline smaller than a hipline for the mechanics of their support. Came the war and my kind of chemises started getting scarce. I bought a pair here and a couple there. I hoarded 'em. A good thing I did, too, because they disappeared from the market altogether back in 1944.

Time and the laundry took their toll. My bride says my union suits today are a disgrace. She is tired of patching patches, particularly since new rips now appear between each mend. In her ignorance of my dimensions, she said why didn't I get some shorts?

* * *

I DID. They were beauties with blue spots. They cost $3. An intricate system of seaming, buttons, and hips was responsible for keeping them up. It did not. Not on me, it didn't. I bought a second pair, which the man said didn't need hips. The elastic in the waist kept them in place, he said.

It did, but it bit me in the doing. Caused me to squirm and itch, left a red streak around my equator and in general made me miserable. The man said I must have had it too tight. He sold me a third, looser pair. Same old trouble. Collapsed.

This, as any psychiatrist knows, warped my personality. Soured my outlook and caused me to snap at haberdashery salesmen. I consulted a history book, "As We Were," by Partridge and Bettman, and discovered that not until the Civil war did most American men wear underwear at all.

The Union army issued same, insisted that soldiers use it, and men ever since have been addicted to the custom. I referred the book to the lady who patches my union suits and what she said I shall not repeat.

* * *

IN FOLLOWING her instructions I have for the last two days ignored congress, the patent office, the White House, and the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. I have spent my waking hours, tramping from haberdasher to haberdasher, looking for union suits. I have been sneered at and smiled upon as an old-fashioned fellow. One sympathetic storekeeper rummaged in his cellar and came up with some prewar union suits, size 32. Said if I could reduce eight inches he'd save them for me.

At the biggest shop in town I had a showdown. I called for the proprietor and demanded an explanation of the great union suit mystery.

He said it was simple. A $2 union suit takes no more cloth than a $1.50 pair of shorts plus a $1 undershirt. Why should the manufacturers make union suits?

He added that most of the union suit makers were in the sports shirt business now, anyhow. He said he had a nice selection of sports shirts.

I shot him. My attorney insisted on a jury of hipless males in shorts. The verdict: justifiable homicide.

MEDICAL AID PLAN CHANGES UP FOR ACTION

Meeting on Program Set For Tomorrow Night.

A meeting to discuss changes in the financing of medical aid to Mansfield's indigents will be held Tuesday at the city building, Service-Safety Director William W. Enlow said today.

The city annually allocates some $5,000 for medical and surgical services to indigents and sets up a $4.75 a day fee for their hospitalization. Services are provided through a contract with General hospital.

Enlow said that there is a "question about the contracts being legal under some apparent changes in state law."

He said, however, that any changes made in the contracts or "arrangements" with the hospital will not result in stopping aid to indigents. "The relief load will have to be financed in some manner," he asserted.

Contract Expires.

The director said that the contracts with the hospital expired Dec. 31 and that Tuesday's meeting is being held to map changes before new agreements are drawn.

Persons scheduled to attend the meeting besides Enlow, include City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner, County Prosecutor Theodore Lutz, City Auditor Paul L. Kelley, Relief Director William Johns, Miss Faye Chamberlin, city investigator for the indigent; members of city council's finance committee, and Mrs. Dorothy Davis, clerk in the director's office.

Members of the finance committee include Russell Porch, chairman; Fred Miller, and Charles N. Shultz.

SEVEN SPEEDERS CALLED TO COURT

Seven motorists charged with speeding and one booked on a charge of hit-run driving and having no driver's license were ordered to appear in traffic court Wednesday. An eighth person, charged with speeding, was ordered to appear Saturday in municipal court.

Police said Gaylord W. Bahl, 73, of 109 West Second street, was booked on the hit-run and no license charges.

They said the charge was made following a report by Rev. Samuel U. J. Peard, 31 Bowman street, that his car was struck while parked on Park avenue west yesterday.

Charged with speeding and ordered to court Wednesday were Fred M. Bachman, 649 Maple street; Ray S. Prosser, 211 Adams street; Richard L. Shrader, R. D 4; Lewis G. Oyster, 152 East Second street; Melford O. Riddle, of Ontario; John L. Morley, 763 Dickson parkway, and John M. Remy, of Crestline.

Calvin R. Knecht, of Columbus, is to appear in municipal court Saturday.

J. F. Westrick Dies At Home

J. Frank Westrick, 69, died early today at his home, 216 South Mulberry street, after an extended illness.

Born in Tiffin, June 14, 1877, Mr. Westrick came to Mansfield 50 years ago and had been in the shoe repair business during that time. He had conducted a business on South Main street, prior to his death Mr. Westrick was a member of St. Peter's Catholic church and the Knights of Columbus.

Surviving are his wife, Florence; one sister, Mrs. Mary Partee of Tiffin and several nieces and nephews.

Services will be held at St. Peter's church Wednesday at 9:30 a. m., with Msgr. R. C. Goebel officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield Catholic cemetery. Friends may call at the Geiger funeral home until time for services.

SEEKS TO FILL SCHOOL VACANCY

County Supt. Boyd Robinson today was looking for a woman physical education teacher for Madison high school.

The vacancy must be filled by this week-end since the resignation of Mrs. Margaret Ziroff becomes effective Friday, Robinson said.

Mrs. Ziroff submitted her resignation so that she would be able to accompany her husband who was transferred out of Mansfield.

The teacher must also be qualified to teach three classes of English, Robinson said.

ASHLANDER FACES TRIAL

ASHLAND—Edward Stevens of Ashland was awaiting trial today on a charge of breaking and entering in connection with the theft of more than $40 from the St. Edward's Catholic church parish house, Dec. 22. He was indicted Saturday by the Ashland county grand jury.

GOP SEEKS RIGHT OF TARIFF VOTE

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A Republican proposal to create a foreign trade board with power to veto state department decisions on tariff cutting developed today from Senator Vandenberg's restatement of GOP international policy.

The Michigan senator told a Cleveland audience Saturday night in his first speech since becoming chairman of the foreign relations committee he believes congress would "continue the device of reciprocal trade agreements, in one form or another."

Translating this into action, Senator Brewster (R-Me.), told a reporter Vandenberg said he may join this week in introducing legislation to establish a six-member board which could reject state department proposals to whittle tariffs under the reciprocal program.

As Brewster outlined the proposal, it would involve setting up a board of six experts, two each representing agriculture, industry and organized labor. Interested parties could appeal to the board when they felt a state department decision was unfair to them. The board would have no original power, however, to fix tariffs.

WAA COUNSELOR ARRIVES IN CITY

A War Assets Administration counselor, assigned here to aid veterans in procuring surplus government property, opened an office today at the city building.

Counselor Vance T. Grimes said that he will be in Mansfield the second and fourth Mondays of each month. His office is located on the third floor of the city building.

Grimes said objective of the office is to eliminate the need for veterans to go to the regional office in Cleveland. He said his office hours are from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m., but added that he would be willing to meet with veterans before or after those hours.

Four Members Are Sworn In To T. B. Building Commission

The four newly-appointed members of the Richland county T.B. building commission have been sworn in and $5,000 bonds on three of the appointments have been accepted by the court, it was reported today by Common Pleas Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch.

Bonds already submitted by a bonding company were for Dr. John S. Hattery, Atty. John C. O'Donnell and Charles Stecker.

The company handling the bond for Dr. P. A. Stoodt, the fourth appointee, has not yet submitted the bond, Kalbfleisch said.

The appointments were made last week by Judge Kalbfleisch. The four men will serve on a commission to supervise the construction of the new $400,000 Richland county T.B. Sanatorium.

Advertisement for bids were expected later this week, C. L. Shoup, chairman of the board of county commissioners, said.

5 Extension Meetings Booked For This Week In Richland Area

Five extension service meetings for Richland county rural residents are scheduled for this week, County Agent George B. Ganyard and Miss Mabel Spray, home demonstration agent, announced today.

Third session of the Young Farm couples' meeting will be held Wednesday at 8:30 p. m. at the Central Methodist church. Topics for discussion are Farm and Home Management, and Farm Incomes and Expenses. Director of this week's session will be Guy Miller, extension service economist from Ohio State university.

Thursday at 1:30 p. m. the second session of the Dairy Breeding school will be held at North Lake Park pavilion. C. D. McGrew of the animal husbandry department of Ohio State university will lead the discussion on "The Principal of Inheritance in Dairy Cattle."

Meetings on "Kitchen Improvements" have been scheduled by Miss Spray.

First meeting of the week will be held at the residence of Mrs. Edna Tupps, 254 East Summit street, Galion Tuesday at 10 a. m. for rural women in Sandusky township.

A meeting for the Springfield township women will be held at the home of Mrs. Lucile Stingel in Ontario at 10 a. m. Thursday, while women in the Lexington area will meet at the home of Mrs. George Mentzer of near Lexington, Friday at 10 a. m.

The "Kitchen Improvement" meetings will last all day. Sack luncheons are planned, Miss Spray said.

Saturday 11 members of the Richland county Senior 4-H club, accompanied by Ganyard and Miss Spray, attended an Older Rural Youth district meeting at Wooster. The groups heard an address on "Personality" by Dr. Robert B. Haas of the University High school, Columbus, and a talk by Dr. Charles Williams, director of the North Canton YMCA. The Richland county group was in charge of recreation for the meeting.

WEEK REMAINING TO BUY DOG TAGS

Sale of dog licenses were moving faster at the Richland county auditor's office today but dog owners were reminded that they have only a week to purchase their licenses before the Jan. 20 deadline.

Approximately half of expected 6,500 licenses remain to be sold during the rest of this week if all of the known dogs in the county are to be provided with licenses before next Monday's deadline.

Dog owners may purchase their licenses by mail by using the card forms and submitting the correct remittance, Norman L. Wolfe, county auditor, reported.

SERVICES SET FOR CAFFEY CHILD

Clyde D. Caffey, jr., two-day-old son of Mr. and Mrs Clyde D. Caffey, High street, died yesterday at Mansfield General hospital.

Besides his parents, he is survived by his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hullinger of Mansfield and by his paternal grandfather, Walter Caffey of Texas.

Graveside services will be held at 11 a. m., Tuesday at the Mansfield cemetery. Arrangements are in charge of the Wolford funeral home.

DRIVER INJURED

Herbert F. Snypes, 34, of Detroit, Mich., received minor bruises last night when the car he was driving failed to negotiate a curve on the detour around the municipal airport and ran off the road into a ditch. State highway patrolmen said the accident occurred around 8:30 p. m.

WAR ATMOSPHERE—

Mansfield was subject to a simulated aerial attack yesterday as six Army Air Force training planes "buzzed" the city throughout the day. The planes, piloted by former AAF fliers from Mansfield, will be at the Municipal airport every eighth day as part of an AAF training program to keep former officers in flying trim. Some 40 men from the Mansfield area who flew during the war are participating in the program. The planes are from a Cleveland army air base.

TROUBLES AIRED—

Richland county common pleas court is going to be a busy place this week with 48 divorce cases scheduled for hearing before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch. Some of the cases are being dismissed as the assignment dates approach but C. A. McKinley, assignment clerk, said others are being scheduled for trial during the week so that the backlog of old cases can be cleared from the docket.

MARKS ELECTED TO LOAN BOARD

One new director was elected and all 1946 directors were re-elected to serve in 1947 at the sixty-fifth annual meeting of stockholders of the Citizens Savings & Loan company held in the company offices in the Citizens building Saturday.

The newly-elected director is Clarence W. Marks, assistant cashier of the Citizens National Bank & Trust company.

John A. Massa, secretary of the company, reported on the condition of the company and the business transacted during 1946 when $80,000 was added to the company's surplus account.

Directly following the adjournment of the stockholders' meeting, the newly-elected board of directors met to organize and elect their officers to serve in the coming year.

Avery C. Hand, of the Tracy and Avery company, was re-elected president of the company and Philip E. Schmutzler was re-elected vice president. Massa, who has been with the company for 38 years, was reelected managing officer, secretary and treasurer; Chester D. McVicar, with 26 years of service, was reelected assistant secretary, and John C. Bertka, with 20 years of service, was elected assistant secretary and treasurer. L. H. Beam, who has been the company's attorney for 39 years, was again elected to serve in that capacity for 1947.

The company was organized in 1882.

Dr. Young, who is a member of the summer faculty at Chautauqua Institute in New York state, will speak on "English As She Is Spoke," in which he will elaborate on the work of English teachers in the public schools.

CHOICE PUTS LEGISLATURE ON HOT SPOT

Future of Talmadge Dynasty Hangs in Balance as State Assembly Convenes.

ATLANTA, Ga.—(UP)—A legislature definitely on a hot spot convened today to decide whether a Talmadge dynasty shall be established in Georgia.

Turbulent Eugene Talmadge died last month just 23 days before he was to take the governorship he won by hitting hard a primary campaign theme of "white supremacy." He promised to restore "white" primaries.

On Christmas eve, next day after "Ole Gene" was buried, the old campaigner's lieutenants opened a three-weeks' drive to have the legislature elect his son and campaign manager, Herman Talmadge, to the post he helped his father win.

Sometime tomorrow, when a well buttonholed assembly votes o the question, the Talmadge faction will make its supreme effort to forge the link between father and son.

* * *

Both Sides Confident.

But Lt.-Gov.-elect Melvyn E. Thompson, who claims the office by automatic succession immediately after he is confirmed by the assembly, declared today 160 legislators had pledged to vote against the Talmadge bid, and 129 votes would block Herman from the governorship.

But there is another block. Gov. Ellis Arnall, whom Thompson helped to defeat Eugene Talmadge four years ago, has resigned, effective only when Thompson accedes to the governorship. Arnall made it clear he would not surrender to young Talmadge even if the legislature elects him.

Talmadge claims the office on the basis of several hundred write-in votes cast for him in last November's general election.

2 LEGIONNAIRES TO GET AWARDS

Ralph Hughes and Henry Emmer, last year's commander and adjutant, respectively, of McVey Post, American Legion, will be presented with special merit awards, issued by the state Legion commander Wednesday night at the Legion home.

D. A. McCullough, post commander, said the presentation was authorized by Don Schoeppe, state commander. The awards will be made at the regular meeting at 8 p. m.

Attending the Fifth district's winter conference in Lorain yesterday were McCullough, Emmer, Hughes and James L. Zimmerman. Hughes, chairman of the committee of Sons of the American Legion, and Zimmerman, chairman of the committee on national defense, presented reports to the assemblage.

McCullough urged today that Legion members sign up at the post canteen for the Legion firing squad. The squad, he said, will be kept in readiness for the return of World War II dead to this country, starting in June.

4 POLICEMEN DIE IN BLAST

JERUSALEM — (U.P.) — British infantry searched the slums of Haifa today for a Jewish underground member who blew up the city police station, killing four policemen, in defiance of a Jewish agency truce appeal.

An official announcement said two British and two Arab police were killed in the blast last night. It estimated 100 British, Jews and Arabs were injured. The casualty list was expected to rise, as the civilian casualty list was uncertain.

A rigid curfew imposed on the city after the explosion was lifted at 10 a. m. The search was concentrated in an area downtown occupied by oriental Jews.

The Palestine Post warned editorially that the repercussions of the explosion will be heard in London. It said the Palestine population would support the authorities "to track down the ruthless murderers and fanatics."

The explosion, worst since the King David hotel in Jerusalem was bombed last July, was an underground answer to the appeal by David Ben Gurion, chairman of the Jewish agency executive, for a truce.

Son Held After Death Quarrel

CINCINNATI — (AP) — A family quarrel ended in death last night for Thomas C. White, 51, and Detective Chief Clem Merz said he was holding for questioning the man's 28-year-old son, Earl.

Merz said the elder White was wounded fatally by a shotgun blast. He quoted his son, who has not been charged, as saying he fired the shot after his father had shot at him four times. The son attempted to intervene in an argument between his father and 31-year-old stepmother, the detective chief asserted.

VETS GET NEW BUSINESS LOANS

More than 1,000 Ohio veterans of World War II are being helped to finance new business enterprises under the provisions of the GI bill by the Veterans Administration.

George C. Sturgeon, loan guaranty officer for the VA's Columbus branch office, reported that 1,082 Ohio veterans had borrowed $3,671,323 to finance business enterprises under the GI bill up to the end of 1946. The VA guaranteed payment on $1,577,873 of the total amount. The average business loan was $3,393 with an average VA guaranty of $1,458.

As of Jan. 1, a total of 32,080 Ohio veterans had borrowed $180,652,050 under the GI bill for homes, farms and business purposes with the VA guaranteeing $80,142,836. Lending institutions advanced veterans $174,070,697 to purchase or construct homes—the most popular feature of the GI loan program.

The VA will guarantee up to $4,000 on real estate loans or up to $2,000 on personal property loans, but not to exceed 50 per cent of the total loan.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Alfred Lunt, co-star with his wife Lynn Fontane in the Theater Guild show "O Mistress Mine," underwent a kidney operation Saturday at St Luke's hospital Dr. Claude W Munger, hospital director, reported that Lunt was "doing well." The play was suspended until Feb. 10 when Lunt it expected to resume his role.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

A Camp Dix correspondent swears this actually happened during the let-down period that followed V-J Day. The commanding officer of the post entered the barber shop in the middle of the afternoon and found one of his assistants getting a hair-cut.

He remarked caustically, "I see you're getting your hair cut on government time, eh?" "Yes, sir; it grew on government time," pointed out the assistant. "Not all of it," pursued the C O. "Right, sir," agreed the unperturbed assistant. "I'm not getting all of it cut off."

OHIO LIQUOR SALES SHOW SHARP DROP

COLUMBUS—(AP)—A "terrific slump" in liquor sales since Ohioans completed their celebration of Christmas and the new year has left the state with its largest supply of spirits in recent years.

State liquor warehouses and stores have on hand approximately 785,800 cases of whisky, gin, brandy, rum and cordials, as compared with 580,200 a year ago, A. I. Balmert, acting liquor director, said last night

Furthermore, sales during the holiday season did not come up to expectations, Balmert reported Figures for the last week of 1946 are not available, but sales in the two weeks ended Dec. 21 amounted to $5,001,144, as compared with $5,968,170 in the corresponding period of 1945.

Village Considering Water Purification

LOUDONVILLE—The city council today had under consideration a recommendation by D P. Griffin of the Mansfield district office of the state health department that a lime soda softening process be installed in the city's water plant.

Griffin made the proposal to the council after a petition signed by 477 residents requesting the village's water be purified Griffin said the installation could be made without requiring a general bond issue.

SPEAK JAPANESE? ARMY WANTS YOU

Veterans with a knowledge of the Japanese language are being sought by the Mansfield army recruiting station.

M/Sgt Daniel DeSalvo, station commander, said today that there is a shortage of military translators and interpreters. Former enlisted men, with the necessary qualifications, may be enlisted as technicians fourth grade, or at a higher grade if they held a higher rank in the service. In addition they may choose a two-year "hitch."

Persons selected will be trained at the Military Intelligence Service Language school, the Presidio, Monterey, Calif., and then assigned—probably to Japan or Korea.

Ousted Works Director Says He'll Fight To Get Job Back

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche's last-minute appointment of a fellow Democrat to replace a Republican at the helm of a major state department struck a snag Saturday.

Lausche, who retires from office Monday and has made at least a dozen appointments in the last week, gave the job of Public Works Director to J L McCormick of Ravenna.

Frank L. Raschig, the current director, challenged the appointment and declared he would "fight to keep" his job.

A Republican reappointed by Lausche last year, he maintained he had been named for a one-year term expiring July 26.

* * *

Named For Year.

The governor named McCormick to a one-year term ending Jan. 1, 1948.

"I'm surprised to see you take that attitude," Raschig quoted the governor as saying after the chief executive notified the public works chieftain by telephone today that he intended to make a new appointment.

Raschig maintained that his commission for the job contained phraseology assuring him the post until next July 26 and contended also that "that is the Ohio law."

McCormick has been assistant chief of the state highway department's engineer of Division No. 4 with headquarters at Ravenna, and previously served an eight-year period in the state auditor's office.

His appointment was one of at least a dozen that the governor, who steps out of office Monday, has made the past week. These include:

John E. Halliday of Gallia county, to the Conservation commission, Dr. Stanley West of Stark county, to the Board of Optometry, Robert M. Sohngen of Hamilton to the State Supreme Court; Robert L. Moulton of Galion, to the commission for the State School for the Blind; R. J. Markin of Versailles, to State Board of Embalmers and Funeral Directors; John E. Lokar of Cleveland, chairman of State Racing commission; Joseph Brueggman of Cincinnati, to Judge of Municipal court; Joseph P. Sullivan of Cleveland to Municipal court, and James F. Bell, jr., to Common Pleas Judge of Madison county.

SALLY KNACKSTEDT-LOU TRESCHLER WIN TITLE

SPORTS ROUND UP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Dodgers are compiling a "managers' manual," based largely on Boss Branch Rickey's talks at his pre-training schools in the south . . . It won't be ready soon, as they want to be sure it is correct in every detail before going to press. . . . It now appears that those rumors about Jim Tatum leaving Oklahoma to coach Maryland football will get Jim a pay raise, which was what he really wanted.

* * *

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Bob Paulos, Alton, Ill., Telegraph: "The president of the University of Minnesota regrets that the Big Nine succumbed to the football bowl craze. That should put him in a class with UCLA."

MONDAY MATINEE

Bernie Crimmins, assistant line coach at Notre Dame, reports the first he heard of the Irish-Army bustup was while listening to a radio broadcast en route to the Sugar Bowl game. Bernie claims he nearly fell out of his chair—which would have made quite a dent in the floor. . . . V. J. Edney, Auburn cage coach, doesn't have to go beyond his own squad for coaching assistance. Forward Jack Powell coached high school basketball in Alabama for two seasons.

CLEANING THE CUFF

The Cincy Reds figure that Frankie Blumholtz, one-time Indiana U. athlete who played for Columbia, S. C., last summer, is a sure shot to become their regular center fielder. . . . Fred Vinson, jr., son of the chief justice, is playing basketball for Washington and Lee. The brochure says he is "a fiery scrapper and an excellent floor man." What more could you ask for a pre-law student?

Madison Plays Lexington 5

Mansfield Madison will have the advantage of its homecourt in seeking its sixth straight cage victory, the second of the season, over Lexington tomorrow night.

On the Minutemen hardwoods ealier in the season, the Madison quintet eeked out a, 39 to 37, win in an overtime period. Ram Forward Eldon Pritchard scored two baskets while Gerald Bigler added one for Lexington in that crucial three minutes.

Coach Jeff DeHaven's main worry will be setting up a defense to stop Coach John Rees' high scoring forward, Rollin Ford. Ford is in second place in the Richland county individual scoring race with 96 points. He netted 15 in the last Madison-Lexington fracas.

The two reserve squads will play the first contest at 7:15. Madison entertains Union, another county school, Saturday night.

Spring Football Out At Shelby

SHELBY — No spring football practice will be held at Shelby high school, Coach Al Fendrick disclosed today.

If spring sessions are held, fall practice can not be started until several weeks later than the usual opening time, Fendricks stated.

More can be accomplished with the longer period in the fall than with the spring sessions with a late fall start, Fendrick declared.

SCORE OF 1066 CAPTURES CITY DOUBLES TITLE

Sally Knackstedt and Lou Treschler cinched the doubles title in the Women's City bowling tournament with a 1066 yesterday at the Colony Bowling alleys.

In the final day of the 1947 tourney, Mrs. Knackstedt and Mrs. Treschler moved past Donna Schuster and Dorothy McDevitt, who notched 1044 last week to take the lead. The latter team took second place honors. Laura Maser and Bertha Flowers ended up in third place with 1042.

Kate Warga's 607, bowled last Sunday, remained good, and Mrs. Warga was crowned the '47 singles champion. Mrs. Warga pounded the maples for 203-184-202 (18)—607.

Elizabeth Shannon knocked out a 199-142-177 (16)—566, to move into a two-way second place tie with DaLee Schroff in the singles.

Lillian LeMunyon finished in fourth position with a close 565 total. Mrs. LeMunyon bowled last Sunday.

Miss Schuster captured the all-events (scratch) championship with 1634, one of the highest women's scores in tournament bowling. She notched 235-180-165—580 with Max Diner, 160-190-155—505 in singles and 167-210-172—549 in doubles.

Elnora Kanz won the all events (with handicap) crown with 1583. Miss Kanz bowled 176-159-150 (16)—485 with Terminal Inn, 172-166-144 (16)—530 in singles, and 163-154-155 (16)—472 in doubles.

All States Freight took the team title Saturday night with 882-870-904—2596. Applan Penna Tires captured the second position with 2584 while Terminal Inn was third with 2580.

Plumbers Are Favored To Defeat Optimists

Mansfield Plumbers are favored to win over the Junior Optimists in the Junior cage league at the Friendly House gym at 6:30. The Plumbers have been undefeated in six games.

In the other two tilts, Marshall Market plays Roseland and Saprano's Cigar store collides with the Wild Cats.

Metz Kayoes Pro Golf Head Fred Corcoran

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif.—(AP) — Personal differences within the ranks of the Professional Golfers' association, which flared into the open with a "one punch, one down" effect, has snatched top billing today along with the tournament in which the incident was inspired—the $10,000 Bing Crosby invitation pro-amateur.

The man who went down from a blow in the mouth was Fred Corcoran, tournament manager of the PGA for the past 10 years. The man who readily admitted he struck the blow was Dick Metz, one of the leading pro golfers from Wichita, Kans.

It took place in nearby Carmel last Friday night. Corcoran said the matter was an "unprovoked assault" and told a roomful of interviewers he was contemplating filing a civil suit against Metz. He spent a night in the hospital for a check-up, which disclosed a bruised mouth, some loosened teeth but no concussion.

Metz not only confirmed the episode but gave out a statement in which he said:

"I understand Mr. Corcoran was slightly injured, which I deeply regret. In the midst of the argument, Mr. Corcoran angrily turned around toward me in what I judge to be a menacing manner. I reacted spontaneously in self-defense."

Corcoran declared: "Metz struck me in the mouth without warning. The blow knocked me down and I spent the night in a hospital. . . . This was a sneak punch. I was the victim of a 'Pearl Harbor.' Metz invited me to ride with him and Horton Smith (also a pro golfer) to Carmel for dinner. When he reached there Metz took me by the arm and said 'Let's take a walk.' He walked a few steps when it happened. I did not see the punch coming and landed flat on my back."

PCA officials said a meeting would be held soon to determine what action would be taken.

Meanwhile the tournament victors were George Fazio of Los Angeles and Ed Furgol of Detroit, who tied in the 54-hole event with scores of 213, and Sam Snead, Hot Springs, Va., who paired with Roger Kelly, Los Angeles, to capture the pro-amateur competition. Snead and Kelly had a 54-hole best ball score of 196.

Fazio and Furgol each won $1,600 for low tying score among the professionals while Snead pocketed $1,000 for his share in helping win the pro-amateur title. In addition, Furgol picked up an extra $425 for his part in the pro-amateur stuff while Snead won $733 for tying for third place in the strictly professional scoring. Low scoring amateurs won radios.

DEL MONTE, Cal.—(U.P.)—Next stop on the winter tour is the $10,000 Richmond, Cal., open and already at least five big name stars have found reasons to discontinue their journeys.

Metz, of course, was not expected to go to Richmond, and Snead, Craig Wood, Johnny Bulla, and National Open Champion Lloyd Mangrum also said they were planning to drop off the circuit.

Fostoria 'Y' Tops Mansfield, 47-42

FOSTORIA — Fostoria YMCA defeated the Mansfield 'Y' here Saturday night in the opening game of the Northwest district "Y" basketball league, 47 to 43.

Fostoria led at the quarter 12 to 11, but Mansfield took over the lead at halftime, 24 to 23. The home club went back on top at the three-quarter mark, 36 to 31.

Joe Radio had nine points for Mansfield.

Eight Big Nine Teams Struggle In Loop Play

By CHARLES EINSTEIN

CHICAGO—(INS)—Eight agitated Western conference basketball teams, including untested Purdue, will struggle in league play tonight, frantically aware that the ninth member of their group—Wisconsin—has all but locked the title in its trophy case.

While the bombsight-eyed Badgers relaxed in the comfortable atmosphere of first place, anxious contenders eyed one another warily and prepared for an evening of "make-or-break" significance. On tap were:

1. Purdue vs. Indiana at Bloomington, Ind. The Boilermakers enter the Big Nine race full of ginger, talent, and their customary lack of good will towards men.

Saturday night, Purdue ended its pre-conference affairs with a whopping 60 to 56 victory over big, bad Notre Dame.

Indiana was busy Saturday night too—losing to Wisconsin, 70 to 49, in a game which saw the Badgers hit on an amazing 36 per cent of their shots.

2. Minnesota vs. Iowa at Iowa City, Ia. This baby's a big one. The Gophers, with a won-and-lost record of 2-and-1, are currently in second place, one game back of the undefeated Wisconsin cagers.

Iowa, having split in two games, is tied with Michigan and Indiana for third.

Both ball clubs won Saturday night, Iowa routing Ohio State to the aggravated tune of 61 to 35 while Minnesota was nudging Michigan, 48 to 37.

3. Ohio State vs. Illinois at Champaign, Ill. This is the frustration series. Each team—Illinois' whiz kids and Ohio State's defending champs—has won one, lost two.

Things are looking bad. O. S. U. lost Saturday night—Illinois won, over a crippled Northwestern five, 55 to 40.

4. Michigan vs. Northwestern at Evanston, Ill. This'll be the second meeting between the teams—Michigan won the first one, 39 to 31, and Ossie Cowles' fellows are going to have to win this one too if they want to do anything about the Big Nine crown.

Northwestern is currently in the league cellar, and few expect the Wildcats to emerge therefrom.

Saturday night: Michigan at Indiana; Iowa at Purdue; x-Ohio State at Pittsburgh; x-Wisconsin at Michigan State.

x-Indicates non-conference game).

Four Teams Tie In Puck Loop

Four of the eight games played in the American Hockey league during the weekend resulted in ties with only the Indianapolis Capitols making any appreciable progress as they cut the Cleveland Barons' Western division lead to four points.

Three of the ties occurred Saturday—Hershey and Cleveland, 4-4; Springfield and Buffalo, 5-5; and St. Louis and Indianapolis, 3-3—while Hershey drew with New Haven, 2-2, Sunday.

Indianapolis marked up their important victory Sunday, 5 to 2, over the Pittsburgh Hornets, scoring three goals in the second period and two in the third. Cleveland was idle Sunday and remained at 51 points to 47 for Indianapolis.

In other Sunday games, Buffalo scored two goals in the first period and two more in the third to rout St. Louis, 4 to 1, and Providence downed the hapless Philadelphia Rockets, 6 to 4.

Shelby Merchants Defeat Willard

SHELBY — The Shelby Merchants defeated the Willard Elks, 36 to 35, Saturday night to strengthen their lead in the Northern Ohio Independent semi-pro cage league with four straight wins.

The game was a nip and tuck with the lead changing hands several times in the closing minutes. "Breeze" Hollenbaugh dropped in two baskets to put the Merchants in the lead in the final minutes of the game played on the Shelby high school court.

The Merchants also are undefeated in the Commercial "B" league in Mansfield.

Heidelberg, Capital Top Ohio Colleges

By JOHN BARRINGTON

Capital university's torrid Lutherans, traveling at nearly a basket-a-minute clip, found themselves both in the spotlight and on the spot today.

Teh Lutherans, who defeated Muskingum, 74-58, Saturday for their fifth straight, are one of two undefeated teams in the state. They lead the Ohio conference with four wins in loop play.

Moreover, Coach Bill Bernlohr's quintet registered its 18th straight home triumph against the Muskies in a streak going back to 1945.

This season the Lutherans have scored 398 points in five games for a phenomenal 77.8 average. Opponents have tallied only 242 points.

Three games face CAP this week, however. Kenyon and Wilmington, tackled away from home tonight and Thursday, respectively, should afford little difficulty. The poser may come Saturday night when Ohio Wesleyan invades the Bexley sanctum of the Lutherans.

Ohio Wesleyan, experiencing an in-and-out season, had won only three of eight games to date. The Bishop competition has been stiff, however.

Ohio's only other unbeaten team, Heidelberg, has two games on tap this week, meeting Otterbein tomorrow and Mt. Union Friday. Neither of the Student Prince opponents is above the .500 mark.

Bowling Green, the state's busiest team, plays a double header of international flavor Saturday night after a Friday tussle with Baldwin-Wallace in Cleveland's arena. The twin bill at Bowling Green brings in Gannon College of Erie, Pa., for the curtain raiser and the University of Havana for the nightcap.

Harold Anderson's Falcons, slightly below the brilliant pace they set for the past three seasons, have 13 victories in 19 games, nevertheless. That mark is good for third place in the state.

3 Loop Games Headline Card

SHELBY—Three Northern Ohio league tilts Friday night headline the week's cage play. The Shelby Whippets are undisputed league leaders with three straight victories.

Topping the week's schedule are the league tilts that take undefeated Galion to once defeated Bellevue and one defeated Norwalk to once defeated Upper Sandusky Friday night. Galion won its league opener against Bucyrus, 60 to 40.

Coach Charles Williams' Whippets will travel to Bucyrus tomorrow and entertain Crestline here Friday night in games that will not count toward the official league schedule. The Whippets entertain Bellevue here Jan. 24 for their next official league game.

The third league game Friday night takes Willard to Bucyrus.

Ed Ehlers, Purdue three-sport star, is partial to No. 14. He wears the same playing number in basketball, baseball and football.

Mansfield, Springfield Each Have Six-Footer

Mansfield will go against another team of its own size tomorrow night when the Springfield Wildcats invade the Tyger lair.

Both clubs have one six-footer in the starting lineups. Chuck Sisco, Bengal, and Carl Lawrence, Wildcat, each hit the six-two mark.

In addition to Lawrence, Springfield will floor a team that includes two other 1945-46 regulars—Carl Parrill and John Evans. Mansfield defeated the Wildcats last season, 31 to 27. Springfield has won eight of 11 games this season.

The Wildcats have beaten Columbus Central, Columbus West, 48-32; Dayton Roosevelt, 39-26; Lima Central, 50-26; New Philadelphia, 47-23; Monroe, 32-29; Dayton Fairview, 52-26 and Portsmouth, 36-34. Springfield lost to Dayton Wilbur Wright, 38-39; Dayton Stivers, 37-43 and Middletown, 27-41.

Tommy Bloor leads the Tyger scorers with 101 points according to the averages released today. The little forward has pounded home 44 field goals and 13 free shots for an average of 10.1 a game.

Ollie Cline is second with 90 while Sisco has 87. Cline leads in free throws with 22 while Nick Gagich has 20. Cline has averaged 57.9 from the foul line and Gagich, 55.6.

The Bengals hit 12 of 15 free throws in beating New Philadelphia, 44 to 34, last week. The team's percentage of gartis completions is 51.9.

Mansfield Bowlers Finish Far Out Of Tourney Money

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. — Mansfield bowlers finished far down the list in the Central States bowling tournament being held here.

The best any of the Mansfield individual keglers could hit yesterday was a 199-225-201—625 by John Leppo. John Bernat and Willie Hipp had 378-424-318—1120 in the doubles. Both were far down the list.

The only other duo to hit in the 1100's was Art Hilborn and Frank Messmore with 391-355-364—1110.

Jerry's "36" Mar and Bissman's Birdie Brand failed to dent the money list in the team events Saturday night. Jerry's hit 2,632 and Bissman's, 2,611. Harold LeMunyon had 563 for Jerry's and Hilborn posted an identical score for Bissman's.

Clothiers, Beverage Tilt Tops A League

The all important game between the undefeated Komito's Clothiers and Richland Beverage will highlight play in the City A league at the Senior high gym tonight.

The Beverage five have been defeated only once and hope to regain their standing by upsetting the Clothiers in the second contest. Komito's are tied for first place in the first division with Smokehouse.

Yuncker's Sports will collide with Mansfield Tire and Rubber five in the opening tilt at 7. The Sports quintet will better their third straight victory, while the Tiremen are in hopes of dropping the Yunckers team and advancing into second place in the second division.

Barnes Manufacturing meet the AVC team in the last game. The veterans have yet to win a league contest. Barnes is faced to cop its third win in six starts.

Muncie Is New OSL Selection

DAYTON —(AP)— Section of Muncie, Ind., as the eighth member of the Ohio State league was announced yesterday by Frank Colley, president of the Class D baseball loop.

Members chose the Indiana club over Charleston, W. Va., at a meeting here in an effort to "preserve compactness of the league," Colley said. He explained that Charleston was about 300 miles from the nearest member while Muncie was closer.

Portsmouth and Mansfield, O., were other applicants to replace Middletown, which withdrew recently. There was no Portsmouth representative at the meeting. The Mansfield application requested future consideration for a franchise because it was not ready to join this year.

After Champ Joe Louis Comes Nothing--NBA

By LAWTON CARVER, INS Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(INS)—The National Boxing association today killed off for the time being speculation as to which fighter is the outstanding candidate for the right to be knocked bow-legged by heavyweight champion Joe Louis, under the title of "local contenders" in the heavyweight division, the NBA dismisses the subject with these two words:

"None available."

The NBA championship committee, headed by Fred J. Saddy, of Milwaukee, then ranks the outstanding heavyweights as follows:

Elmer Ray, of Minneapolis; Tami Mauriello, of New York; Bruce Woodclock, of England; Joe Walcott, of Camden, N. J.; Joe Baksi, of Kulpmont, Pa., and Joe Maxim, of Cleveland.

Abe J. Greene, president of the NBA, says Billy Conn was taken at his word on his announced retirement and the Pittsburgher has been dropped from the rankings. He isn't even listed among the honorable mentions which are headed by Melio Bettina, with Curtis Sheppard as runnerup. This is in slight variance with the published opinion of Jack Dempsey.

The latter reportedly has a slight interest in the welfare of Sheppard and recently ranked the Baltimore negro as the logical contender for Louis' title.

Greene said that the current ratings, for the start of the new year, are the most comprehensive such compilation since before the war and all fighters throughout the nation with worthy records were mentioned because of the NBA's desire "to encourage new blood to make bids for good ratings in all the divisions."

In the midst of all this, President Greene also took a few pot shots at Fritzie Zivic for his persistence in trying to fight his way back from retirement.

Greene said:

"In recent months, Zivic has returned to the ring, and as a good name in boxing has been able to make numerous matches. By men who know boxing, it is universally conceded that Zivic has not only long since passed his peak, but is working serious harm on the sport by his unsatisfactory performances. It is conceded that perhaps Zivic, as the master of the foil, is able to spar his way out of physical Harm's way. But in so doing he leaves a trail of dissatisfied fans behind."

Things You Never Knew 'Til Now About Makeup of 80th Congress

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty

WASHINGTON —(CP)— Fewer bald heads, more service ribbons, but just as many lawyers—that's the pattern of the new congress.

The election that brought the Republicans to congressional power also brought in enough veterans of World War II to make up 15 per cent of the house and six per cent of the senate. (World War I veterans, however, still far outnumber the newer crop.)

There's been a general lowering of the age level, too. The average age of house members in the 80th congress is 51, but new members average 10 years younger. In the senate, the average runs five years older than in the house.

Maybe some conclusion can be drawn from the fact that house Republicans average two years more than house Democrats. But senate Democrats run two years older than senate Republicans.

* * *

THE BABY of the senate is Wisconsin Republican Joseph R. McCarthy, a former Marine captain, who is 37. Two other Republicans, both veterans of World War II, William F. Knowland of California and William E. Jenner of Indiana, are 38. Grandpappy of the GOP is 81-year-old Arthur Capper of Kansas.

The Democratic extremes are represented by Senators J. William Fulbright of Arkansas and Warren G. Magnuson of Washington, both 41, and Theodore Francis Green, of Rhode Island, who is 79, still exercises regularly, and can often be seen taking his chance for a seat in Washington streetcars.

House extremes range from under 30 to over 80, but 74 per cent of the members are between 40 and 65.

The moderate change in the age complexion of congress was not matched by any alterations in its occupational makeup. Lawyers still lead the list; they constitute 56 per cent of the house (they were 55 per cent in the 79th congress) and they make up 66 per cent of the senate.

Other professions in the house are businessmen, 12 per cent; newspapermen and publishers, six per cent; farmers, four per cent; civil servants and public officials, three per cent; teachers, three per cent; bankers, two per cent, and miscellaneous, including three accountants, one pharmacist, one union official and a veterinarian, six per cent.

* * *

OF THE SEVEN women in the house, Frances P. Bolton (R) of Ohio, and Edith Nourse Rogers (R) of Massachusetts, were social workers; Margaret Chase Smith (R) of Maine is a businesswoman; Helen Gahagan Douglas (D) of California, an actress and singer; Katherine St. George (R) of New York, a housewife, and Georgia Lusk (D) of New Mexico, a teacher. Mary T. Norton (D) of New Jersey has held public office since 1924.

Besides its 64 lawyers, the senate includes four farmers, 13 businessmen, nine newspapermen or publishers, three teachers and one banker, one public official and one "other."

In the senate Republican businessmen outnumber Democrats by 10-3, while the journalists are all GOP men.

Getting back to the veterans (none of them are women), there are 63—38 Republicans and 25 Democrats—who were in World War II in the house, including a dozen who saw service in both wars. The number of World War I vets is 143. There are even a few who were in the Spanish-American war, including J. J. Mansfield of Texas and Republican Rep. Earl Michener of Michigan.

There are eight World War II veterans in the senate, seven of them Republicans. Two of them, Knowland and Magnuson, are incumbents and two others, Jenner and Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, have been in the upper chamber before. The others are McCarthy, John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, Harry P. Cain of Washington, and former Gov. Edward Martin of Pennsylvania. Martin is a veteran of three wars, beginning with the Spanish-American, in which, incidentally, Tom Connally of Texas also served.

* * *

A GOOD MANY states, in spite of the many veterans, don't have any representatives who served in World War II. Among them are Michigan, which has 17 members of the house; Iowa, with eight; Ohio, 23; Wisconsin, 10; Nebraska, four; New Hampshire, North Dakota and South Dakota, with two each, and Montana, Nevada, Utah, Vermont and Wyoming with one apiece. Wisconsin gets out from under with McCarthy.

Here are some miscellaneous facts about the new congress:

There are 25 ex-governors in the senate and 20 former representatives. Clyde R. Hoey (D) of North Carolina and Charles W. Tobey (R) of New Hampshire squeeze into both categories.

The largest single age group in the house is between 50 and 55—20 per cent. The largest single group in the senate is in the same bracket, and adds up to the same percentage.

N-O College Loop Planned

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)—Only the formalities remained today to complete formation of a new athletic league of Northern Ohio colleges, and those were expected to be taken care of April 13.

Athletic directors of five potential members met here to work out plans yesterday. On hand were Gene Oberst of John Carroll, Russ Beichly of Akron, Ray Watts of Baldwin-Wallace, Dave Connelly of Toledo, and Ray Ride of Case.

Only Ride held back on the proposal, and his hands were tied by the current uncertainty over Case's future athletic policy.

The five colleges all are members of the Ohio conference, and will retain that affiliation although they will declare their own champions in football and other sports.

Bill's New Leg To Go Dancing

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Dynamic Bill Veeck, president of the Cleveland Indians, expects his new artificial leg soon and plans to hold a dance to celebrate the occasion.

Veeck, whose right leg was amputated seven inches below the knee last Nov. 1, was getting fitted for the wood limb today. Its delivery was expected within two weeks.

Although he made no promises as to his own dancing, the ex-Marine said he intended to hold a dance to mark the discarding of crutches he has used for more than a year.

Veeck's leg was crushed by the recoil of an antiaircraft gun while serving with the Marines of Bougainville. Amputation was advised after it failed to respond to treatment.

Cook Scores 24, Wisconsin Wins

CHICAGO—(INS)—Bobby Cook, dark-haired all-conference forward whose 24 points led Wisconsin to a 70-49 triumph over Indiana Saturday night, was rambling along today at a 22-point-per-game clip in the Big Nine scoring race.

Cook's 66 points in three games is 28 points to the good of runner-up Murray Wier of Iowa, who has everaged 19 points per contest with 38 markers in two games.

Cincinnati Reds Sold Out For 1947 Diamond Opener

CINCINNATI —(UP)— Ticket Manager John Murdough announced here today that all seats have been sold for the Cincinnati Reds' opening day game against the St. Louis Cardinals April 15.

Cincinnati is the only major league team that by tradition is annually awarded an opening day game at home.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

Reddy Fox was running swiftly, stopping now and then just long enough to listen for a moment to the voices of the two Dogs who were telling every one within hearing that they were chasing a Fox. "Fox! Fox! Fox! Fox! Wow-ow-ow! Fox Fox!" they bayed. You know the barking of a Hound chasing a Fox is called baying.

Reddy was sure that it was Mrs. Reddy running ahead of those Dogs. It was what is called a sure guess. He would have said it wasn't a guess at all; that he knew. While those voices would have told you or me little more than that those Dogs were chasing a Fox, they told Reddy a great deal more. They told him as much as he would have known had he been where he could see that chase.

He knew every foot of ground for long distances all about. He knew every path, big and little, and every turn of every path. He knew every fence and stonewall, every tree and clump of bushes, every patch of bare sand, every swampy and marshy place, every boulder and ledge of rock. He knew them so well that it was as if there was a picture of them he could look at as he ran. And because he knew them so well he knew where Mrs. Reddy was almost as well as if he were running with her. He guessed just what tricks to break her trail she would try, and where she would try them.

After one stop to listen he bounded forward with greater speed. "She is getting tired, too tired. She can't get to the safety of the home den before those Dogs catch her unless I get there to interfere," thought he.

How did he know this? Those Dogs were telling him although they didn't know it. Their fast barking told him that the trail was what is called "hot." That means that Mrs. Reddy's scent was strong in their noses because it was fresh. This excited them so that they bayed faster and louder, knowing that she was only a little way ahead of them. Reddy knew that he wouldn't allow them to get so near her if she could help it. Each time the barking stopped meant a break in the trail. The short stops came every few minutes now. Reddy knew that as a very tired Fox would try to soften.

Because he knew the ground so thoroughly he knew just where the chase would lead, knew just where Mrs. Reddy would run. Knowing this he was able to cut across so as to strike her trail between her and the Dogs. She didn't see him. It was just after she had broken the trail and was trying to hurry on.

Reddy sat down and waited. He grinned as he listened to the thrashing about in the bushes, the sniffing and snuffing, as the Dogs search for the trail. It was hardly more than a minute before they found it and baying excitedly broke into a run. Reddy waited until one of them looked up and saw him. Then as the other saw him he took to his black heels in quite another direction from that which Mrs. Reddy had taken. You should have heard those Dogs as they took after him. It didn't occur to either of them that it wasn't the Fox they had been chasing.

The Fox smell was strong in their noses, easy to follow. For a time Reddy kept it so by not getting far ahead. He had taken over, as they say of one who assumes a task from another. He didn't try even the simplest trick to break the trail until he had led those Dogs far enough away from Mrs. Reddy for her to be completely out of danger for the rest of that day. He didn't think of himself at all, only of her and her safety. Reddy is like that. He really is.

He led the Dogs away from the Old Pasture, away from Farmer Brown's farm, of which the Old Pasture is a part. He tried several clever tricks to get rid of them, but failed. He soon found that they knew all the common tricks. If he was to get rid of them before he, too, was too tired to run he must try something else, something they never had had tried on them before. What should it be? As he ran Reddy Fox was doing some fast thinking.

GOP TAX CUT TALK FADING TO WHISPERS

Leaders See Need of Finding Ways to Chop Spending.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Republican talk of making tax cuts the No. 1 business of the new congress died down to a whisper today.

Many GOP leaders still felt it could be done. But the prevailing belief in house and senate appeared to favor delaying tax legislation until specific ways were found to cut government spending.

House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr., called a meeting of GOP house leaders today to discuss how to speed a decision by congress on the ceiling to be set on spending for the new fiscal year. It must be set by Feb. 15.

Meanwhile, the new congress stepped up operations after a week devoted chiefly to listening to presidential messages and examining the administration's new $37,528,000,000 budget — which Republicans assailed as too high.

The senate military affairs sub-committee issued a report charging the war assets administration with "poor performance" in disposing of surplus property. House leaders followed up by okaying a new surplus inquiry.

The house was expected to complete its organization early this week. The Republican slate of committee assignments was due for approval today and the Democratic slate probably tomorrow.

Tenure Bill First.

Republican leaders doubted their first house bill could be ready for action before Feb. 1. That was expected to propose a constitutional amendment limiting presidents to two terms.

The congressional budget committee—which will set the ceiling on government spending—was expected to meet within 10 days. It includes the house appropriations and ways and means committees and corresponding committees of the senate.

While most Republicans considered Mr. Truman's $37,528,000,000 budget too high, GOP estimates as to how much it could be trimmed ranged from $3,000,000,000 to $7,000,000,000.

Ways and Means Chairman Harold Knutson, R., Minn., was especially eager to get an early decision from the budget committee so he could determine whether to push his 20 per cent income tax reduction bill in its present form.

Even Knutson, who introduced his tax bill as H. R. 1 to symbolize the priority the Republicans wanted to give tax relief, was inclined to let his legislation cool a bit pending a closer look at the budget.

The ways and means committee was expected to meet this week.

Knutson intended to ask it first to consider reducing excise tax on furs—and furs only. Originally, he planned to include jewelry and possibly leather goods in the first excise tax reduction legislation. But he abandoned that idea and decided to confine it to furs because of reportedly distressed conditions in the fur industry.

CIO SEES NEW STEEL CONTRACT

PITTSBURGH—(U.P.)—The CIO-United Steelworkers and U. S. Steel Corp.—"Big Steel" of the industry—square off again next Thursday in the annual battle to write a contract.

The contract negotiations will begin just three days short of the anniversary of last year's great steel strike that idled 853,000 steelworkers.

A year ago, the steelworkers demanded a flat $2 day increase. Their month-long strike was settled by an 18½ cent hourly increase which became the pattern for industry generally. With the raise, the industry was permitted to increase prices.

But there are no OPA controls this time. Philip Murray, the CIO and steelworkers president, has said he expects a "substantial" wage increase and no price rise.

Murray again will head the negotiations for his union. But U. S. Steel President Benjamin F. Fairless will be replaced this time by J. A. Stephens, the corporation's vice president in charge of industrial relations.

The Iron Age, national metal-working paper, said early last week steel industry has a "good chance of going through steel wage negotiations without a major tie-up in production."

"It is almost a foregone conclusion," the publication said, U. S. Steel "will make a moderate offer to Philip Murray which will form the basis of further negotiations leading toward an acceptable wage increase figure."

The steelworkers have a 15-point program for '47. In addition to more money, they want portal-to-portal pay, a guaranteed annual wage, union shop, improved vacations, seniority rights, premium pay for holidays, Saturdays and Sundays and more social benefits.

U. S. Steel generally has been considered steel's "bellwether" and its contract terms have been those of the entire industry. Thursday's negotiations will cover five U. S. Steel subsidiaries—Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp., American Steel and Wire Co., National Tube Co., Columbia Steel Co., and the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Co.

BARNES TO HONOR OLDEST WORKER

Awards to employes with the longest service with the Barnes Manufacturing company will be made at the annual veteran employes' dinner, Tuesday at 6:45 p. m. at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Fred B. Hout, vice president in charge of sales, who will make the awards in the capacity of toastmaster, said the 15 veterans' club members of the company and their wives are expected to attend. Also attending will be members of the operating committee, their wives, and the company president, M. H. Pryor.

Minimum requirement for membership in the Barnes veterans' club is 20 years' service, Hout added.

Marshall R. Seyfd, personnel director, will be in charge of program arrangements.

Galion Shrine Club Sponsors Minstrel

GALION—A rollicking minstrel show was played to a capacity house at senior high school auditorium Saturday evening. The entertainment was sponsored by the Galion Shrine club, and was presented by the Aladdin Temple Players of Columbus. Two bus loads of entertainers comprised the troupe.

Shriners and their families of Crestline, Galion and Mt. Gilead, and Masonic groups from Shelby, Mansfield and Bucyrus attended the showing. The minstrel was presented by the Canters and Piccadors of Aladdin Temple. The Chief Robbin, Tom A. Bangs, was in charge of the show and gave an introductory talk.

EXPRESSWAY WOULD SAVE WORKERS' TIME

Project Through City Planned To Open Direct Route To Industrial Plants.

Air Supply depot at Shelby, the CAA-built municipal airport of Mansfield, the Ohio State reformatory and Charles Mill dam, a unit of the Muskingum Watershed Conservancy district.

In addition, the report says that U. S. Route 30, which would be affected by the proposed expressway, is an important east-west transcontinental highway from New York City, to Pittsburgh, Chicago and the west coast.

Five state roads, Routes 13 and 545 over Wayne street, 39 east of Ashland hill, 545 west of Mansfield and 97 near Lexington, would also be relocated or provided interchanges to hook into the expressway, the report indicates.

Over these roads in and through Mansfield, 27 trucking companies operate from 15 freight terminals in the city and long distance bus service to and from such cities as Detroit, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati is provided.

* * *

Routes Jam Traffic.

Route 42 and 30 carried an average of 21,856 vehicles daily in 1941, or 65 per cent of the 33,952 vehicles which entered and left the city over all its main high arteries, the report says.

"Mansfield has 103 miles of city streets, 74 of which are paved. This network provides good access to the business section of the city, but residents to the south and west must pass through the central section in order to reach their work in the northeastern industrial plants.

"Federal and state highways through the city also traverse the streets of the business section and a greatly congested traffic condition, especially during the rush hours of the day, has resulted."

Rural sections of the existing Route 42 are on a winding alignment with many short horizontal curves and many steep gradients, the report points out.

"There are few locations of sufficient sight distance to permit safe passing. Pavements are narrow and most sections are in fair to poor condition. Bridges on the south section have clear roadways of less than 20 feet and have been the locations of many fatal accidents," the report says.

Ashland hill, the report declares, has an eight percent gradient with horizontal curves of 11, 9 and 8 degrees and is hazardous even under the best weather conditions.

The Central park area, through which Routes 42, 30 and 13 pass, contains highway traffic plus a large volume of local traffic and is especially congested.

Routes 42, 30 and 39 jointly pass through the underpass at the Pennsylvania railroad and Park avenue east. But there is a sharp turn immediately west of the structure, the southwest is steep, and the vertical clearance through the structure is only 13 feet."

Traffic on Route 42 through the city varies from 4,768 vehicles per day at the south corporation line to 16,920, one way, through Central park, to 16,810 on Park avenue east and to 8,396 at the east corporation line

* * *

Pavement Narrow.

"The smooth flow of this traffic is impeded by narrow pavements, many street intersections, curb parking and numerous private drives," the report declares.

"Throughout the entire length of the proposed project, the existing route lacks a modern alignment and gradient is inadequate to carry modern high-speed traffic in a safe and efficient manner.

"Therefore, in view of the general inadequacy of the existing route and the importance of this section as a part of the interregional highway system, the present highway should be replaced with a modern, free-moving limited-access, arterial highway through Mansfield on a location that will remove from the central congested section of the city those elements of traffic bound for other sections and those elements passing through the city."

'First Three Days Toughest,' Say Survivors of Polar Plane Crash

ABOARD U. S. S. MT. OLYMPUS—(AP)—Six survivors of the wrecked Byrd expedition seaplane told today how they slowly emerged from the shock of their plane crash in the Antarctica, withstood terrific hardships and buried their three dead comrades in graves of snow.

William G. H. Warr, aviation machinists' mate of Portsmouth, Va., and Radioman James Haskins Robbins of San Diego, Calif., were called mainstays in helping pull the survivors through.

Others said Capt. Hoy H. Caldwell, commander of the seaplane Tender from which the photographic flight began, kept the men's courage up until rescue came, nearly two weeks after the explosion and crash.

* * *

WHEN CALDWELL went aboard his Tender, the Pine island, yesterday and shook hands with Capt. George Dufek, the task group commander, his first words to Dufek were:

"There wasn't the slightest doubt you'd get us."

It was on the seventh day that they buried the three dead under the southern edge of their crashed plane's wing, with an American flag flying. Caldwell conducted burial services.

All the survivors said the first three days were the toughest. None ate for the first day and a half. They were dazed by the crash and suffering varying degrees of shock.

But then they began digging into the snow and in the wreckage of the plane for food and other supplies and set up camp.

The men's own fire drew the discovery plane to them. Chief Photographer's Mate Owen McCarty of Sonoma, Calif., first sighted the plane and lighted a fire of paper cartons and parachute fragments soaked in gasoline which sent black smoke up 300 feet.

This is the story told by the survivors:

* * *

WHEN THE PLANE exploded about bounding off an icy crest, Ens. Maxwell A. Lopez of Newport, R. I., and Aviation Radioman 1/c Wendell K. Henderson were killed at their stations.

Caldwell, in the nose, was thrown clear, as were Robbins and Warr.

McCarty, in the rear of the plane, was knocked partly unconscious but recovered and dragged himself from the burning wreckage.

The pilot, Lt. (jg) Ralph Paul Leblanc of Martinsville, Ill., was strapped in his seat and unconscious while flames licked through the cockpit.

Robbins, Warr and the co-Pilot (jg) Williams H. Kearns jr., of Boston, raced up and pulled him clear.

Then came nearly two days of living in numbed shock while snowstorms whistled around the wreckage lost in the vast unexplored continent.

During that period the men lived in the rear section of the fuselage and made no attempt even to leave their sleeping bags until the third day.

TRAFFIC PLAN CALLS FOR 110 MORE METERS

First move in a plan to ease the parking space shortage in the downtown area was revealed today to include installation of 110 new parking meters. The city currently has about 410 meters in operation.

Some, 50 two-hour meters are to be installed on Mulberry street from Park avenue west to West Third street and possibly as far north as West Fourth street.

They will be the city's first two-hour meters, providing parking for that length of time for five cents, city council's traffic committee chairman, Harry Hollingsworth, said. Meters now in operation provide one-hour parking for five cents.

Hollingsworth said that if meter receipts warrant it, some 60 additional meters are to be purchased later in the year.

These will be one-hour meters, the first of which would be installed on South Main street from First to Second streets.

Then, if receipts warrant, the next group would be installed on North Diamond street from Third to Fourth streets, he said.

The plan then includes extending meters on Mulberry to West Second street and Temple court.

He said his committee's plans are based on recommendations made by Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals. The first 50 meters are to be purchased "as soon as possible," Hollingsworth said. He said a 60 to 90-day delivery date is quoted by manufacturers.

Hollingsworth said main aim of the new meters will be to provide additional parking space close to the downtown section. Boals described Mulberry street as the area needing meters first.

TOLEDO — (AP) — Frank M. (Jack) Warwick, 85, retired associate editor of the Toledo Blade and a former partner of the late President Warren G. Harding, died yesterday. He was a newspaperman for 70 years.

Teacher Admits Attacking Child

DOVER — (AP) — A 31-year-old high school teacher, who police said signed a statement that he criminally assaulted a nine-year-old girl, was held today for grand jury action.

The mathematics teacher at Canton Timken high, Gen Wilford Weedman, pleaded guilty to the attack charge Saturday when brought before Mayor Harris W. Stucky. He denied, however, a charge that he assaulted the eight-year-old companion of the child.

OHIO GOVERNOR BINDS SELF TO RIGID ECONOMY

programs would be improved, and declared:

"Such improvement will undoubtedly require additional financial aid from the state. Adequate education to fit our youth for more intelligent living will best serve them and the state also through the years ahead."

Herbert declared that his administration hopes to construct welfare institution buildings, relieve the critical institutional housing shortage and improve the treatment of the state's wards.

He also promised "to foster close cooperation between the state agriculture department, Ohio State University's College of Agriculture and the agricultural experiment station." He said the state board of agriculture would be utilized as a policy-forming group.

"Good roads," said Herbert, "are essential to our state's agricultural industrial and commercial development. Detailed plans for the expansion and further improvement of rural roads, arterial roads and trunk-line highways were prepared prior to and during the war.

"Postwar construction has been delayed. We propose to expedite state road building and maintenance and hope, by furthering a highway safety program, to reduce the present high rate of casualties resulting from highway accidents."

Turning to labor, Herbert asserted that history has demonstrated that labor prospers most under free enterprise for labor and management "with a minimum of government control or interference."

"Big business, big unions and big government itself," he declared, "should be subject to regulations by law in the public interest so that business, unions and government shall be the servants, not the masters of the people."

In regard to state workers, Herbert pointed out that there are at present 25,000 such employes.

"This," he asserted, "is an all time high and should be reduced. There is no longer any justifiable reason for further delay in conducting the necessary civil service examinations. We propose that they be resumed at once so that the spirit as well as the letter of the civil service laws may be followed."

Herbert took cognizance of the tuberculosis problem in pointing out that 2,500 Ohioans die each year from the disease. He promised to present specific recommendations in an effort to reduce the toll.

The new governor concluded:

"Let us go forward together, unafraid, and further build our state and nation so that we may prove worthy of the sacrifices of all those who have gone before and that we and our children may continue to live the American way."

VOLCANO'S PEAK PUFFS UP, THEN HEAVES LAVA

MANILA — (AP) — Southern Luzon's towering Mayon volcano, boiling for five days, erupted this morning with a furious shower of boulders and lava.

Lt. (jg) Robert Case of Nevada, (Wyandotte county) Ohio, a navy weather officer, circled the volcano at 10,000 feet during the display in an army plane piloted by Capt. Robert A. Harris of Dayton, O.

"It (the peak) got redder and swelled like a bubble, then broke," Case related. "A lava stream went straight up to a height we estimated at 8,000 to 10,000 feet above the peak (itself 7,903 feet). "We saw huge rocks blown straight up. They looked like small houses to us even at a distance of a mile and a half or two miles. The eruption lasted about a half hour."

Two towns near the base were ordered evacuated earlier as lava boiled over down the eastern and southern slopes and black smoke mushroomed three miles into the sky and light earth tremors shook the area.

Camalig, with a population of 22,000, and Libon, with 7,800, were ordered abandoned. Both are in the path of the lava streams.

Mayon, dormant five years, became active last Wednesday, shooting up great clouds of smoke.

JAPS EXPLAIN CANNIBALISM

TOKYO—(U.P.)—Grisly evidence submitted in the trial of leading Japanese war criminal suspects told today how Japanese soldiers on Pacific islands turned to cannibalism and ate the flesh of American prisoners.

Affidavits made by former Japanese soldiers listed a variety of reasons for turning to human flesh. One Japanese said that he was a "mad man because of the war and that's the only reason I can give for being a cannibal."

Another document argued that killing Americans for food was no different from killing beasts for a similar purpose. A third affidavit admitted that "no one relished the taste."

Deafened Now Hear With Tiny Single Unit

Science has now made it possible for the deafened to hear faint sounds. It is a hearing device so small that it fits in the hand and enables thousands to enjoy sermons, music, and friendly companionship. Accepted by the Council on Physical Medicine of the American Medical Association. This device does not require separate battery pack, battery wire case or garment to bulge or weigh you down. The tone is clear and powerful. So made that you can adjust it yourself to suit your hearing as your hearing changes. The makers of Beltone Dept. 7726, 1450 W. 19th St. Chicago 8, Ill., are so proud of their achievement that they will gladly send free descriptive booklet and explain how you may get a full demonstration of this remarkable hearing device in your own home without risking a penny. Write Beltone today.—Adv.

U. N. SEEKING GOVERNOR TO RULE TRIESTE

Post Requires Strong-Handed Neutral Candidate.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. —(INS)— The United Nations Security Council began its hunt among world-famed jurists and diplomats today for a suitable governor of internationalized Trieste.

Candidates for this vital post under the stewardship of the powerful eleven-nation body are being canvassed in the various countries and are under informal discussion among the council representatives.

Although the search for a preferably strong-handed yet neutral nominee for the governorship still continues, the first names broached at Lake Success currently disclose the wide field being explored.

Diplomatic observers pointed out that painstaking care is essential in selecting the man for the governorship, since success or failure in maintaining peace and security of the free territory will depend on the governor's tact and administrative ability.

The session of the council fixed for Wednesday will deal primarily with disarmament and atom control, but at a later date the nominees for the post will be voted upon.

From the popular standpoint, the name echoing most frequently around Lake Success for Trieste governorship is that of former New York Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuaria. By the same token, there seems to be total lack of support among the security council delegations for his candidacy.

OHIO ASSEMBLY MEETS BRIEFLY

COLUMBUS —(UP)— The Ohio 97th general assembly met here today in skeleton session and a log-jam of bills to be introduced will probably be held back until after Gov. Thomas J. Herbert addresses a joint meeting Jan. 20.

The legislature convened to sign and send to the newly inaugurated governor for approval the $109,258,621 partial appropriations bill passed to maintain state government until the regular biennial appropriations bill is completed.

Governor Herbert must sign the bill before Wednesday if the state is to meet its first payroll of 1947 and continue subsidy payments.

Although several bills may be introduced into the senate, legislative leaders of both houses indicated last week that the solons may vote adjournment tomorrow until Herbert's address. The governor's address will contain specific legislative recommendations.

House Majority Leader Paul McCormick, R., Logan, said a concurrent resolution would be introduced into the house tomorrow calling for adjournment for one week.

In the senate, Majority Leader Frank E. Whittemore indicated that the upper house would probably go along with the house proposal.

Fight Looms Over GOP Plans To Push War Investigation

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Rumbles of a political storm came Saturday over Republican plans to continue and expand the senate war investigating committee first set up by President Truman.

It may break out in senate debate today when Republican leaders try to push through approval for two special probes—one on war profits and the other a new small business inquiry.

Senator Tydings (D-Md.) told a reporter he will "do everything in my power" to stop what he termed "attempts to throw the congressional reorganization plan out the window."

Tydings, with strong backing of other Democrats, is opposing all special investigating committees. He said inquiries should be conducted by the regular standing committee set up under reorganization.

Meanwhile Republican committee leaders worked out a "compromise," on differences between Chairman Brewster (R-Me.) of the war investigating group and Republicans on the armed services committee.

Under this agreement the special war investigating group will drop its plans for a probe of the American military government in Europe and operations of the regular war and navy departments.

Future hearings would concentrate on war contract profits.

Brewster won other Republicans over to the idea of continuing the special group when he pointed out it is the only senate committee which has special authority from the president to examine income tax returns.

President Truman, when a senator, was the first chairman of the committee.

Brewster and Senators Ferguson (R-Mich.) and Knowland (R-Calif.) of the investigating committee conferred with Senator Wherry (R-Neb.) who is pushing for a new special small business committee to replace one formerly headed by Senator Murray (D-Mont.). Under his proposal Wherry would head the new group.

EXPRESSWAY WOULD SAVE WORKERS' TIME

Project Through City Planned To Open Direct Route To Industrial Plants.

Air Supply depot at Shelby, the CAA-built municipal airport of Mansfield, the Ohio State reformatory and Charles Mill dam, a unit of the Muskingum Watershed Conservancy district.

In addition, the report says that U. S. Route 30, which would be affected by the proposed expressway, is an important east-west transcontinental highway from New York City, to Pittsburgh, Chicago and the west coast.

Five state roads, Routes 13 and 545 over Wayne street, 39 east of Ashland hill, 545 west of Mansfield and 97 near Lexington, would also be relocated or provided interchanges to hook into the expressway, the report indicates.

Over these roads, in and through Mansfield, 27 trucking companies operate from 15 freight terminals in the city and long distance bus service to and from such cities as Detroit, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati is provided.

* * *

Routes Jam Traffic.

Route 42 and 30 carried an average of 21,856 vehicles daily in 1941, or 65 per cent of the 33,952 vehicles which entered and left the city over all its main high arteries, the report says.

"Mansfield has 103 miles of city streets, 74 of which are paved. This network provides good access to the business section of the city, but residents to the south and west must pass through the central section in order to reach their work in the northeastern industrial plants.

"Federal and state highways through the city also traverse the streets of the business section and a greatly congested traffic condition, especially during the rush hours of the day, has resulted."

Rural sections of the existing Route 42 are on a winding alignment with many short horizontal curves and many steep gradients, the report points out.

"There are few locations of sufficient sight distance to permit safe passing. Pavements are narrow and most sections are in fair to poor condition. Bridges on the south section have clear roadways of less than 20 feet and have been the locations of many fatal accidents," the report says.

Ashland hill, the report declares, has an eight percent gradient with horizontal curves of 11, 9 and 8 degrees and is hazardous even under the best weather conditions.

The Central park area, through which Routes 42, 30 and 13 pass, contains highway traffic plus a large volume of local traffic and is especially congested.

Routes 42, 30 and 39 jointly pass through the underpass at the Pennsylvania railroad and Park avenue east. "But there is a sharp turn immediately west of the structure, the southwest gradient is steep, and the vertical clearance through the structure is only 13 feet."

Traffic on Route 42 through the city varies from 4,768 vehicles per day at the south corporation line to 16,920, one way, through Central park, to 16,810 on Park avenue east and to 8,396 at the east corporation line

* * *

Pavement Narrow.

"The smooth flow of this traffic is impeded by narrow pavements, many street intersections, curb parking and numerous private drives," the report declares

"Throughout the entire length of the proposed project, the existing route lacks a modern alignment and gradient is inadequate to carry modern high-speed traffic in a safe and efficient manner.

"Therefore, in view of the general inadequacy of the existing route and the importance of this section as a part of the interregional highway system, the present highway should be replaced with a modern, free-moving, limited-access, arterial highway through Mansfield on a location that will remove from the central congested section of the city those elements of traffic bound for other sections and those elements passing through the city."

'First Three Days Toughest,' Say Survivors of Polar Plane Crash

ABOARD U. S. S. MT. OLYMPUS—(AP)—Six survivors of the wrecked Byrd expedition seaplane told today how they slowly emerged from the shock of their plane crash in the Antarctica, withstood terrific hardships and buried their three dead comrades in graves of snow.

William G. H. Warr, an aviation machinists' mate of Portsmouth, Va., and Radioman James Haskins Robbins of San Diego, Calif., were called mainstays in helping pull the survivors through.

Others said Capt. Henry H. Caldwell, commander of the seaplane Tender from which the photographic flight began, kept the men's courage up until rescue came, nearly two weeks after the explosion and crash.

* * *

WHEN CALDWELL went aboard his Tender, the Pine island, yesterday and shook hands with Capt. George Dufek, the task group commander, his first words to Dufek were:

"There wasn't the slightest doubt you'd get us."

It was on the seventh day that they buried the three dead under the southern edge of their crashed plane's wing, with an American flag flying. Caldwell conducted burial services.

All the survivors said the first three days were the toughest. None ate for the first day and a half. They were dazed by the crash and suffering varying degrees of shock.

But then they began digging into the snow and in the wreckage of the plane for food and other supplies and set up a camp.

The men's own fire drew the discovery plane to them. Chief Photographer's Mate Owen McCarty of Sonoma, Calif., first sighted the plane and lighted a fire of paper cartons and parachute fragments soaked in gasoline which sent black smoke up 300 feet.

This is the story told by the survivors:

* * *

WHEN THE PLANE EXploded about bounding off an icy crest, Ens. Maxwell A. Lopez of Newport, R. I., and Aviation Radioman 1/c Wendell K. Henderson were killed at their stations.

Caldwell, in the nose, was thrown clear, as were Robbins and Warr.

McCarty, in the rear of the plane, was knocked partly unconscious but recovered and dragged himself from the burning wreckage.

The pilot, Lt. (jg) Ralph Paul Leblanc of Martinsville, La., was strapped in his seat and unconscious while flames licked through the cockpit.

Robbins, Warr and the Co-Pilot (jg) Williams H. Kearns jr., of Boston, raced up and pulled him clear.

Then came nearly two days of living in numbed shock while snowstorms whistled around the wreckage lost in the vast unexplored continent.

During that period the men lived in the rear section of the fuselage end made no attempt even to leave their sleeping bags until the third day.

TRAFFIC PLAN CALLS FOR 110 MORE METERS

First move in a plan to ease the parking space shortage in the downtown area was revealed today to include installation of 110 new parking meters. The city currently has about 410 meters in operation.

Some, 50 two-hour meters are to be installed on Mulberry street from Park avenue west to West Third street and possibly as far north as West Fourth street.

They will be the city's first two-hour meters, providing parking for that length of time for five cents, city council's traffic committee chairman, Harry Hollingsworth, said. Meters now in operation provide one-hour parking for five cents.

Hollingsworth said that if meter receipts warrant it, some 60 additional meters are to be purchased later in the year.

These will be one-hour meters, the first of which would be installed on South Main street from First to Second streets.

Then, if receipts warrant, the next group would be installed on North Diamond street from Third to Fourth streets, he said.

The plan then includes extending meters on Mulberry to West Second street and Temple court.

He said his committee's plans are based on recommendations made by Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals. The first 50 meters are to be purchased "as soon as possible," Hollingsworth said. He said a 60 to 90-day delivery date is quoted by manufacturers.

Hollingsworth said main aim of the new meters will be to provide additional parking space close to the downtown section. Boals described Mulberry street as the area needing meters first.

ATTACKERS KILL 3

ATHENS—(AP)—An official announcement today said that a band of guerrillas had slain three persons and captured five Greek officers and 20 men in a surprise attack on the village of Gravia, less than 120 miles north of Athens.

Teacher Admits Attacking Child

DOVER — (AP) — A 31-year-old high school teacher, who police said signed a statement that he criminally assaulted a nine-year-old girl, was held today for grand jury action.

The mathematics teacher at Canton Timken high, Gene Wilford Weedman, pleaded guilty to the attack charge Saturday when brought before Mayor Harris W. Stucky. He denied, however, a charge that he assaulted an eight-year-old companion of the child.

VOLCANO'S PEAK PUFFS UP, THEN HEAVES LAVA

MANILA — (AP) — Southern Luzon's towering Mayon volcano, boiling for five days, erupted this morning with a furious shower of boulders and lava.

Lt. (jg) Robert Case of Nevada, (Wyandotte county) Ohio, a navy weather officer, circled the volcano at 10,000 feet during the display in an army plane piloted by Capt. Robert A. Harris of Dayton O.

"It (the peak) got redder and swelled like a bubble, then broke," Case related. "A lava stream went straight up to a height we estimated at 8,000 to 10,000 feet above the peak (itself 7,903 feet).

"We saw huge rocks blown straight up. They looked like small houses to us even at a distance of a mile and a half or two miles. The eruption lasted about a half hour."

Two towns near the base were ordered evacuated earlier as lava boiled over down the eastern and southern slopes and black smoke mushroomed three miles into the sky and light earth tremors shook the area.

Camalig, with a population of 22,000, and Libon, with 7,800, were ordered abandoned. Both are in the path of the lava streams.

Mayon, dormant five years, became active last Wednesday, shooting up great clouds of smoke.

OHIO GOVERNOR BINDS SELF TO RIGID ECONOMY

programs would be improved, and declared:

"Such improvement will undoubtedly require additional financial aid from the state. Adequate education to fit our youth for more intelligent living will best serve them and the state also through the years ahead."

Herbert declared that his administration hopes to construct welfare institution buildings, relieve the critical institutional housing shortage and improve the treatment of the state's wards.

He also promised "to foster close cooperation between the state agriculture department, Ohio State University's College of Agriculture and the agricultural experiment station." He said the state board of agriculture would be utilized as a policy-forming group.

"Good roads," said Herbert, "are essential to our state's agricultural industrial and commercial development. Detailed plans for the expansion and further improvement of rural roads, arterial roads and trunk-line highways were prepared prior to and during the war.

"Postwar construction has been delayed. We propose to expedite state road building and maintenance and hope, by furthering a highway safety program, to reduce the present high rate of casualties resulting from highway accidents."

Turning to labor, Herbert asserted that history has demonstrated that labor prospers most under free enterprise for labor and management "with a minimum of government control or interference."

"Big business, big unions and big government itself," he declared, "should be subject to regulations by law in the public interest so that business, unions and government shall be the servants, not the masters of the people."

In regard to state workers, Herbert pointed out that there are at present 25,000 such employes.

"This," he asserted, "is an all time high and should be reduced. There is no longer any justifiable reason for further delay in conducting the necessary civil service examinations. We propose that they be resumed at once so that the spirit as well as the letter of the civil service laws may be followed."

Herbert took cognizance of the tuberculosis problem in pointing out that 2,500 Ohioans die each year from the disease. He promised to present specific recommendations in an effort to reduce the toll.

The new governor concluded:

"Let us go forward together, unafraid, and further build our state and nation so that we may prove worthy of the sacrifices of all those who have gone before and that we and our children may continue to live the American way."

JAPS EXPLAIN CANNIBALISM

TOKYO—(U.P.)—Grisly evidence submitted in the trial of leading Japanese war criminal suspects told today how Japanese soldiers on Pacific islands turned to cannibalism and ate the flesh of American prisoners.

Affidavits made by former Japanese soldiers listed a variety of reasons for turning to human flesh. One Japanese said that he was a "mad man because of the war and that's the only reason I can give for being a cannibal."

Another document argued that killing Americans for food was no different from killing beasts for a similar purpose. A third affidavit admitted that "no one relished the taste."

Deafened Now Hear With Tiny Single Unit

Science has now made it possible for the deafened to hear faint sounds. It is a hearing device so small that it fits in the hand and enables thousands to enjoy sermons, music, and friendly companionship. Accepted by the Council on Physical Medicine of the American Medical Association. This device does not require separate battery pack, battery wire, case or garment to bulge or weigh you down. The tone is clear and powerful. So made that you can adjust it yourself to suit your hearing as your hearing changes. The makers of Beltone, Dept. 7726, 1450 W. 19th St., Chicago 8, Ill., are so proud of their achievement that they will gladly send free descriptive booklet and explain how you may get a full demonstration of this remarkable hearing device in your own home without risking a penny. Write Beltone today.—Adv.

U. N. SEEKING GOVERNOR TO RULE TRIESTE

Post Requires Strong-Handed Neutral Candidate.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. —(INS)— The United Nations Security Council began its hunt among world-famed jurists and diplomats today for a suitable governor of internationalized Trieste.

Candidates for this vital post under the stewardship of the powerful eleven-nation body are being canvassed in the various countries and are under informal discussion among the council representatives.

Although the search for a preferably strong-handed yet neutral nominee for the governorship still continues, the first names broached at Lake Success currently disclose the wide field being explored.

Diplomatic observers pointed out that painstaking care is essential in selecting the man for the governorship, since success or failure in maintaining peace and security of the free territory will depend on the governor's tact and administrative ability.

The session of the council fixed for Wednesday will deal primarily with disarmament and atom control, but at a later date the nominees for the post will be voted upon.

From the popular standpoint, the name echoing most frequently around Lake Success for Trieste governorship is that of former New York Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuaria. By the same token, there seems to be total lack of support among the security council delegations for his candidacy.

OHIO ASSEMBLY MEETS BRIEFLY

COLUMBUS —(UP)— The Ohio 97th general assembly met here today in skeleton session and a log-jam of bills to be introduced will probably be held back until after Gov. Thomas J. Herbert addresses a joint meeting Jan. 20.

The legislature convened to sign and send to the newly inaugurated governor for approval the $109,258,621 partial appropriations bill passed to maintain state government until the regular biennial appropriations bill is completed.

Governor Herbert must sign the bill before Wednesday if the state is to meet its first payroll of 1947 and continue subsidy payments.

Although several bills may be introduced into the senate, legislative leaders of both houses indicated last week that the solons may vote adjournment tomorrow until Herbert's address. The governor's address will contain specific legislative recommendations.

House Majority Leader Paul McCormick, R., Logan, said a concurrent resolution would be introduced into the house tomorrow calling for adjournment for one week.

In the senate, Majority Leader Frank E. Whittemore indicated that the upper house would probably go along with the house proposal.

Fight Looms Over GOP Plans To Push War Investigation

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Rumbles of a political storm came Saturday over Republican plans to continue and expand the senate war investigating committee first set up by President Truman.

It may break out in senate debate today when Republican leaders try to push through approval for two special probes—one on war profits and the other a new small business inquiry.

Senator Tydings (D-Md.) told a reporter he will "do everything in my power" to stop what he termed "attempts to throw the congressional reorganization plan out the window."

Tydings, with strong backing of other Democrats, is opposing all special investigating committees. He said inquiries should be conducted by the regular standing committee set up under reorganization.

Meanwhile Republican committee leaders worked out a "compromise," on differences between Chairman Brewster (R-Me.) of the war investigating group and Republicans on the armed services committee.

Under this agreement the special war investigating group will drop its plans for a probe of the American military government in Europe and operations of the regular war and navy departments.

Future hearings would concentrate on war contract profits.

Brewster won other Republicans over to the idea of continuing the special group when he pointed out it is the only senate committee which has special authority from the president to examine income tax returns.

President Truman, when a senator, was the first chairman of the committee.

Brewster and Senators Ferguson (R-Mich.) and Knowland (R-Calif.) of the investigating committee conferred with Senator Wherry (R-Neb.) who is pushing for a new special small business committee to replace one formerly headed by Senator Murray (D-Mont.). Under his proposal Wherry would head the new group.

Byrnes Advises 'Firmness In the Right'

NO BETTER summary of requirements for sound American policy in connection with world affairs is likely to be found than in the doctrines expounded by retiring Secretary of State James F. Byrnes during his Saturday night speech in Cleveland.

Drawing from his vast experience with United Nations procedure, Mr. Byrnes emphasized the importance of maintaining unity in the matter of foreign policy, with determination that there shall be no compromise with basic principles, and that Lincoln's plea for co-operative action—"with firmness in the right, as God gives us the power to see the right"—should serve as a guide toward a just and lasting peace.

A realistic attitude is seen in Mr. Byrnes' emphatically expressed view that the United States should not disarm while other nations remain armed—and that it is necessary to maintain military strength adequate to America's post-war obligations . . . a point which is quite uncertain at the moment as the question of military training is left unsettled and as voluntary enlistments fall below needs.

Public airing of differences between nations is also strongly urged by Mr. Byrnes, who expresses belief that discussions in the foreign ministers' meetings and the security council of the United Nations have "brought better understanding of problems and contributed to substantial progress."

It is gratifying to note that Mr. Byrnes feels "more confident than at any time since V-J day that we can achieve a just peace through co-operative effort."

An important suggestion offered, and one which seems vital to success of a peace-disposed world organization, is the requirement for a breakdown of barriers to the exchange of ideas and goods between countries, so that freedom of interchange will help remove conditions that contribute to distress and to the development of blocs.

Enlow Has Been Excellent Director

WHILE it would be unfair to question the right of decision by William W. Enlow to resign the post of service-safety director, in which he has served faithfully and with almost surprising efficiency during the past year, a comment on the subject appears justified.

Admitting that "Bill," as he is best known, was reluctant to accept the appointment proffered him by Mayor Vaughn a year ago, with understanding that he was privileged to resign at the end of a year, it may be wondered if the "constantly increasing work" of the office is sufficient to justify an intelligent, energetic young man (age 33) in throwing off responsibilities rather than grasping additional opportunities for service as they developed, in order to prepare for even greater opportunities likely to present themselves in the future.

This thought is more specifically directed to young men in general, than to "Bill" Enlow personally, as one of the long recognized requirements of success is "stick-to-itiveness," and the leaving of a task unfinished is too common a human trait to be encouraged among those who show capability above the average.

In the matter of salary, payment of $3,420 a year may fairly be considered insufficient for a person capable of serving efficiently in the position of service-safety director of Mansfield, yet, until within the past couple of years, this would have been regarded as excellent compensation for a rather young man—and that may again be the case within another few years.

In any event, "Bill" Enlow has done a good job during his year as service-safety director, and it is to be regretted that he has decided to quit, as his increasing knowledge of the work would have made him even more valuable this year.

No Trace of Legendary Islands

THE BYRD expedition to the Antarctic has already made some additions to geographical knowledge. Swain Island and the Nimrod Islands, which have been on sailors' charts for more than a century, must now be dropped, as the Byrd ships sailed right over them without any sign of land.

This has happened before. The most famous case, perhaps, is that of the legendary island of Brazil, supposed to be somewhere in the Atlantic and sought by mariners long before the discovery of America. Once a Portuguese sea captain was sure that he had found it, and the country he did discover goes by the name of Brazil today.

As knowledge of the ocean increased and failed to reveal the fabulous Brazil Island, the charts kept moving it to unexplored areas. When navigators still could not find it, the mapmakers called it Brazil Rock and as such it appeared on charts as late as 1853.

Race Horses In 'Big Money' Class

SOME people have lots of money—or had. So much was spent last year on going to the races that one horse and perhaps two have excellent chances for breaking the record for the amount of money won by a horse.

Whirlaway, the big-tailed Kentucky Derby winner of a few years ago, brought his owner $561,161 before he was turned out to graze. Assault, last year's winner, has already made $366,000, and has at least a good sporting chance to pass Whirlaway's mark. Stymie, a product of the Calumet Farm from which Assault came, has done even better, having already made $516,285.

Claude Callan suggests: "The way to enjoy life is to be real busy all the time, so you can keep your mind off of it."

THE EBBING TIDE

Moley Questions the Wisdom of Placing Marshall In State Post

By RAYMOND MOLEY

IN MANY comments on General George C. Marshall's appointment as secretary of state, there seems to be a dubious political assumption. This is that Marshall now looms up as an important presidential possibility for 1948.

Before considering the general's qualifications for his new job, it may be well to dispose of the 1948 angle. In the first place, Marshall will be 68 years old before the inauguration in January, 1949.

Furthermore, he will now be closely identified with the Truman administration, and it is likely that Truman himself will be the candidate.

Certainly the Republican party would not select Marshall, with a wealth of other material at hand. And General Marshall is entering on his new job with no assurance that his conduct of foreign affairs will be a howling success.

The elevation of General Marshall will in no way stop the favorable speculation concerning the availability of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the nomination on one ticket or the other. Eisenhower is ten years younger than Marshall. He can, as chief of staff, retain that delightful detachment from political issues so useful to a possible candidate.

Marshall, on the other hand, must be the chief factor in the cabinet, attend cabinet meetings and, at least by sufference, bear part of the responsibility for the momentous decisions which will spell victory or defeat for the Democrats in 1948.

Informed opinion will be hopeful but reserved in its attitude toward the new secretary of state. There is no precedent for the appointment of a military man as secretary of state in the United States, and there are few if any precedents in England and France.

We have had our share of general presidents, who have usually left foreign affairs strictly in charge of the state department. Secretaries of state have come from the ranks of politics and, in general, have been a distinguished lot.

The work calls for a superior sort of political acumen. Negotiations with foreign nations are governed by the same rules of strategy as are present in high domestic politics. The secretary of state must also be a skillful judge of public opinion.

General Marshall in his war service had to deal with foreign nations, but he never had to worry about domestic opinion. His chief in the White House was completely adequate in that respect. As secretary of state, General Marshall will have no such political guidance as he had as chief of staff. President Truman has no desire to be his own secretary of state; no president has held himself more detached from state department decisions.

General Marshall will be on his own now, and he must rely upon his own background of training and experience, which has been almost wholly as an army officer.

An army officer may underestimate the importance of educating the public and overestimate the value of secretiveness.

Mr. Byrnes has successfully brought European problems to a point where they may be worked out, although the German treaty will be the big test. It may be that, since Marshall knows the dangers and meaning of war, he will more successfully pursue the promising start which has been made toward general disarmament. But it is more likely that foreign policy will be more closely identified with military advantage.

It is also possible that Marshall will get on better with the military-minded Russians. And his administrative ability may help in the sadly needed reorganization of our ramshackle state department. No American can help but indulge in a profound hope that the general will succeed in his duties. For critical months are ahead.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, Jan. 13, 1927.

Anti-American sentiment was being displayed in Mexico and the international situation was described as "grave."

School board decided on March 1 as the opening date for new Senior high school.

A. E. Weakland, 189 West Second street, suffered leg fracture as a result of fall on icy pavement.

Fred K. Bechtel, 44, Mansfield photographr, died in Lakeside hospital, Cleveland.

Mrs. E. C. Jenkins and daughters Virginia and Esther left for St. Cloud, Fla., to spend winter.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

On Jan. 13, 1846, an American army was ordered to the Rio Grande for the purpose of preventing a Mexican invasion of Texas.

Dave Boone Says:

WHENEVER I hear a Democrat come out for budget balancing and economies I always know there's a catch in it somewhere. President Truman in his message on the State of the Union was strong for both but his budget message is in astronomical figures and puts Uncle Sam on another spending bender.

* * *

If that budget constitutes Harry's idea of tightening up the purse strings, then the old-fashioned Missouri idea of thrift must be cold stone-dead.

* * *

He's even for a continuation of the present taxes with some higher ones added. Gosh, even Roosevelt used to have moments when he thought that taxes were high enough.

* * *

"At the present time, in my judgment, high taxes contribute to the welfare and security of the country." Harry declared. Well if high taxes make us safe and his budget is adopted it looks like nothing could harm a hair of our heads for a century or two.

Marquis Childs

Chinese Fighting Through Political Jungle.

WASHINGTON — Gen. George C. Marshall's appointment as secretary of state came so suddenly it overshadowed the important declaration he made in China. That statement is proof, if any proof were needed, of how eminently fair-minded Marshall is.

It made clear, beyond a shadow of a doubt, that the problem in China is not even remotely as simple as some in this country make it out to be. It is not a choice between one side which is all white and another side which is all black.

Steering his way through the tortured intricacies of Chinese political intrigue, Gen. Marshall found millions of ordinary people disillusioned with both the Communists and the Chiang Kai-shek government.

He found liberals on both sides who honestly desired a reasonable settlement that would end civil strife.

Within the Chiang Kai-shek government, Marshall found a clique of reactionaries seeking to perpetuate "their own feudal control of China." The Communists are dominated by fanatical Marxists who will sacrifice anything and anyone to win domination. Between these two millstones, the tragedy of the Chinese people is being ground out.

There has been an effort to make it seem that American policy in China was being pushed in the Communist direction by officials in the state department. Specifically, this was aimed at John Carter Vincent, head of the Far Eastern division.

The facts do not support that charge. Throughout the long, difficult months of Marshall's mission to China, the general has worked closely with Vincent. They have been in general agreement in the view that it was not a question of choosing one side that was all white and rejecting another side that was all black.

Similarly, Marshall has worked closely with Undersecretary Dean Acheson. The latter has developed the kind of admiring loyalty to the general which Marshall seems to inspire in everyone he works with. In the light of this relationship, it is all the more regrettable that Acheson is apparently determined to go through with his earlier intention of resigning.

If Marshall had found within the Kuomintang—the party which is in reality the government in China—any determination to move toward democracy, then we might have given Chiang Kai-shek all-out backing. We would have had a right to hope that the mass of the Chinese people would eventually give their loyalty to Chiang. But a corrupt and feudal government is a poor instrument.

Tillman Durdin is a veteran Far Eastern correspondent for the New York Times. From a long background of experience, he knows not only China, but Japan, India, and the colonial empires of the British and the Dutch. In a recent dispatch to the Times from Nanking, he had some interesting things to say about the wave of anti-American demonstrations in Peking. Durdin wrote:

"Probably the most important aspect of the outburst is the large number of students in it and the scope of the resentment against Americans and American policy.

"The manipulations of the demonstration could not have found support if an emotional basis for the anti-American campaign had not existed."

Some will call George Marshall's mission to China a failure. But in a broader sense it has not been a failure. He has shown that he could find his way through a political jungle as dense and as hazardous as any in the world. And he comes out with a fair appraisal, even though it is not a definitive solution for making the jungle into a peaceful garden. His experience in China should give him a running headstart for the intricacies and perils of his larger assignment.

Russians Continue Effort to Get Base on Highly Strategic Island

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Despite our improved relations with Russia, something very peculiar is going on regarding the key island of Spitzbergen up near the Arctic Circle. The Russians have been exerting all sorts of pressure on Norway to militarize this strategic island, thus permitting them to use it as a military base.

There is only one objective for a base on Spitzbergen—offensive action against the United States. From it rocket bombs could probably hit New York.

The United States happened to learn of the Russian-Norwegian maneuvers because we are a party to a 1920 treaty with Norway, England and Russia, by which Spitzbergen is not to be used as a military base. In order to militarize the island, therefore, it is necessary to change the treaty.

The disturbing thing about the Spitzbergen maneuver, however, is the date on which the Russians began to move for militarization. When the state department began probing the matter, they found that the Russians had first approached the Norwegian government in 1944—while the war was still on. And they continued high-pressuring Norway during 1945, the last year of the war, and up until the present.

What causes U. S. concern is that the Russians appeared to be maneuvering for Atlantic bases aimed against the United States even at a time when we were pouring lend-lease into Russia.

In this connection, U. S. diplomats can't help remembering the secret minutes of the Molotov-Ribbentrop conversations in late 1940—shortly before Hitler attacked Russia—when Russia offered to come into the war against the Allies if it got the Dardanelles, half the Balkans, the three eastern provinces of Turkey, Iran and Iraq.

Note—Recent Russian excuse for a base on Spitzbergen is that the United States has a base on Iceland. However, all U. S. armed troops have now been withdrawn from Iceland and it is used only as a base for transport planes.

Truman Shakes Hands.

One ordeal of every president is shaking hands at official receptions. The other night President Truman stood in line while 1,400 members of the diplomatic corps, plus their wives, filed by to greet him.

Truman considers receptions for congress or the army and navy bad enough, but he especially dreads diplomatic receptions where he cannot always catch foreign names.

After shaking hands so fast he barely was able to glimpse faces the other night, the president looked up to see retiring White House assistant Eddie Locke, with his wife.

"Why, Eddie!" Truman said laughingly. "Thank God here's someone whose name I can pronounce."

"Sh-h-h," said Mrs. Truman.

CIO In Alabama.

When "Big Jim" Folsom is sworn in as governor of Alabama next week, he will face a critical situation right in his home town of Elba, where a purge is being conducted against CIO organizers. The same situation also exists in various parts of southern Alabama.

What happened was that the United Automobile Workers (CIO), local at Dorsey Trailers, Inc., charged the company with violating contract agreements and struck in November. Following this, three men beat up James Hardin of Atlanta, a CIO representative, on the main street of Elba.

Shortly after the beating, 19-year-old Junior Wambless, a recently returned war veteran walked up to an Elba policeman and named the men who had beaten up Hardin. However, the cop walked away, explaining to lawyer Tom Adair of Birmingham, who had been on the spot, that he wasn't going to do anything about the beating because he didn't know who had done it. When Adair pointed out that Wambless had just volunteered eye-witness testimony, the cop made no reply.

The reply came half an hour later, when young Wambless was in jail charged with disturbing the peace. Let out of jail the next day, he was given a thorough roughing by the same trio that had beaten Hardin.

Then the matter lies. As for the strike, it is over now and the workers back—except for three union leaders whom the company won't take back.

Assignment: America

—By KENNETH L. DIXON

Old Men for Counsel; Young Men for Action.

WASHINGTON — Byrnes' ears probably were burning, but actually the three people in the back of the taxicab were not saying unkind things about him. They were just regretful and voicing that regret.

It was the day that Secretary of State Jimmy Byrnes had bowed out and President Truman had named Gen. George Marshall as his successor.

The three men had been standing in front of the state department when the cab came by. Slowing down, the driver asked them where they wanted to go. They named an address which was not out of the way, so he stopped and let them in. Then they started talking. . . .

"Good Lord," said one of them, "we've barely gotten Byrnes broken in to where he knows the department's ropes. And now this means we'll have to start all over again."

"We haven't really had any extended peace since before Mr. Hull quit coming down regularly," said the second.

"And he was sick so often before he finally quit that half the time someone else was threatening to take the place over," the third agreed.

For a moment there was only brooding silence from the back seat. Then the second one spoke again.

"Seems to me it's about time we started getting some younger men in some of these key jobs," he said. "It's getting so you never turn around but what some cabinet member or department head is resigning because of ill health—and it always sets the office back weeks or months on its work, no matter how well organized it is."

The other agreed.

All of which is by way of saying that the Byrnes' resignation has revived a lot of the talk around town about "too many old men in government."

There was a lot of that sort of talk shortly after the late President Roosevelt died, and Harry Truman succeeded to the chief executive's chair, leaving the nation without an elected vice president.

Such comments circulated strongly when Mr. Truman recommended that congress revise the succession law to take care of such exigencies in the future.

But then, for a while it died out, and not until the Byrnes' resignation, due to ill health, did you again hear speculative and often critical conversation about the gradually advancing age of America's leaders.

You hear a lot of such talk now. Nor is it confined to those in executive position. And certainly there is meaty basis for much speculation. Recent surveys have shown a gradual advance of about 20 years in the average age of key U. S. office holders during the past century.

Even the number of young veterans in the new congress, for instance, cannot change the fact that the age of the average senator or representative today varies from 55 to 59, whereas a hundred years ago it was from 35 to 39.

Supreme court justices have advanced in average age during that period from 48 to 56- but it is in the realm of cabinet members, such as Byrnes, where the oldest men are found.

A century ago, they averaged 46 years of age. Today the average is 60. Thus the question of ill health becomes of paramount importance to the men and women who work with them.

It is not a matter of policy questions (those men were not criticising Byrnes' ability or policies) but simply a case of smooth departmental mechanics. And certainly it is a problem if the turnover of bosses becomes too rapid.

Even the army is not immune to the accent on age. During the past generation alone, the average age of generals has jumped from 39 to 58.

Yet, ironically, it was a bunch of comparative youngsters—mostly in their early and mid-thirties—who constructed the atomic bomb.

"Big Business" Indulging In Confessions.

WASHINGTON — Confession is said to be good for the soul and undoubtedly it is, even if late, and with a purpose.

In the last few weeks we have had a lot of confessing, almost with wails and flagellations, from big business and industrial figures about the wolves among them back in the 20's and early 30's, and the power they wielded over the American economy, and their abuse of that power.

It's a true confession story, as can be attested by one who covered the series of investigations here in the early Roosevelt era into the private power industry and the New York stock market and financial and banking practices. It was, in truth, a shocking betrayal of trust in many cases.

Now along comes George T. Christopher, president and general manager of Packard Motor Co., to throw the biggest scoopful of ashes over his sackcloth in a speech this week. He said:

"We swung from what amounted to a dictatorship by management in the late 20's and early 30's over to what has amounted to a dictatorship by labor up to the present moment."

"Dictatorship by management." Quite a confession! But in the second half of that sentence he reveals the purpose of all these 11th-hour confessions. They beat their breasts now in confession, after all these years, in order to try to build up the same kind of picture of labor and labor leaders.

There's been a lot of this fine oratory and, as far as "a dictatorship of labor" is concerned, or any of the other phrases that publicity men think up, it is all a fine lot of nonsense. It is clever strategy. But it just isn't true. It's become the "line" now, the tune sung over and over, No. 1 on the Big-Business hit parade.

A few simple facts will show its falsity.

Labor's defensive weapon is the strike, recognized not only by custom but by law. This power has been misused. But anybody who thinks men and women resort to a strike nonchalantly and without lots of soul-searching just doesn't know the facts of life. It means sacrifice and hardship—and it takes courage.

Furthermore, the power to hold out is still weighted heavily on the other side, the corporation with its financial resources. Even the biggest union, if it dips into its funds—and most of them do—can go broke in a long strike. This was shown in the General Motors strike a year ago. The union's funds were depleted. Public contributions were solicited to feed strikers.

Big corporations have reserves. Beyond that, they got big tax refunds last year and Nation's Business for January, the publication of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, is authority for the following statement:

"Tax rebates paid management cost of strikes in 1946, in large part. General Motors, for example, ended up its first nine months with a whopping $135 million loss. Excess profit tax rebates put it to $5,500,000."

If Big Business wants to prove its sincerity, why doesn't it get behind an equally vigorous campaign for control of monopoly?

Yet Big Business already has started in congress a new campaign to break down the anti-trust laws with introduction again of the Bulwinkle Bill to exempt railroads from anti-trust laws and thus withdraw protection from the public. This is a formula which other industries hope to apply, too.

A confession is of little value unless it is followed by a change of ways and by good works.

Farmer's Diary: "Our Ninth Anniversary."

NINE years ago today, when I began to write this daily column for the newspapers, I had the impulse to share that peculiar joy a farmer gets from living on the land, in close partnership with Nature. I thought it ought to be recorded that much good news happens quietly and matter-of-factly, on obscure farms in isolated valleys; in the staunch, truth-seeking hearts of simple farmer folk.

So I took you with me on quiet woodland walks following wild life trails. We explored hollow trees and holes in the ground; rested deep in summer grass; sweated about homely farm tasks; knew the satisfactions of good food, the joys of harvest time.

You knew my family, which is typical, perhaps, of a great number of middle class families in this country. You read about our struggles, with freshets that flooded the cellar; winds that blew off the barn roof; fire that got out of hand when we grubbed out the land for the orchard. You were there when our last baby was born. When the children had measles all at once, not even the quarantine kept you away. When I was twice hospitalized—from a black widow spider's bite and from concussion following a fall on the ice—you were more than kind. The letters my reader friends have sent are wonderful.

Perspective changes as time flies by. Yet I am as sure as ever that the two best things a man can do, on earth, are to plant a fruitful tree, and train a good boy—trees and boys are this country's future. When we have trained enough boys to have reverence for the land when we have educated men's hearts as well as their heads and hands, we shall really prosper, as a nation. Much is happening toward that end, but obscurely and quietly—like dawn out of fog.

The road to "peace on earth" leads through the hearts of folks. The vivid earthy green of a bountiful countryside ties in with health and security, freedom and godliness. Modern science has knowledge enough to feed the whole world bountifully, and skillful brains enough to engineer the job.

The challenge of our time, then, is that of educating the hearts of the people—in making all of us willing and anxious to do the thing for which we, of this generation, were created.

Farming has infinite potentialities. A garden plot leads a man straight to God. And just as all men walk upon the same earth—are made from dust—so can all the races of the world understand simple farm truths.

I wish I could say it better. Here we go into our tenth year.

Editor's Note—The many encouraging letters which Mr. Byers has received from interested readers has obviously inspired and helped him. A letter from you would be appreciated. Address it to Calvin A. Byers, Bellville, O.

Galion Family Reunited With Czechoslovakian Sister

Fairy-book Ending Given Story of War

BY CATHERINE RORICK
N-J State Correspondent

GALION — In a fairy-book ending to a grim story of untold suffering and fear during the German occupation of her native land, Mrs. Herman Kline, of Czechoslovakia, was reunited today with her family in Galion.

Mrs. Kline arrived here Saturday and will spend the next month at the home of her brother, George Hornstein, who lives on South Union street.

The 62-year-old Czechoslovakian landed at LaGuardia field, New York, Friday night aboard a huge Constellation airliner on which she flew direct from her home in Prague. It was an excellent trip, she said, made in 19½ flying hours.

She was met in New York by her son Alvin, a former Galion resident who now lives in Havana; Mr. and Mrs. George Hornstein, of Galion, and a sister, Mrs. James Rose and two nephews, Bernard and Richard Rose, all Cleleland residents who formerly lived in Galion.

* * *

Plans Flight to Havana.

Two other brothers, Armin Hornstein, formerly of Galion; Dr. Joseph Hornstein and a sister-in-law, Mrs. J. Hornstein, all of Cleveland, are among the relatives Mrs. Kline will visit during the next month. She will fly to Havana to visit the home of her son, Alvin.

A native of Czechoslovakia, Mrs. Kline remained there during the entire war.

Fear for her life, hunger, the loss of relatives and friends, and hiding from the dread Gestapo have left the imprint of suffering on her countenance.

But despite the years of privation and horror, she has a charming smile for all she meets, and thankful for the happiness which the reunion with her remaining family has given her,

* * *

Lost Sister; Sons.

During the war Mrs. Kline lost a sister, two sons, six brothers-in-law and 40 nieces and nephews. Still living in her native land are two sisters and son.

Of her two sons lost, one disappeared and another, the youngest, was captured and executed by the Germans. She said the young man, who was a doctor, was shot after the Nazi learned he had treated Czech partisans.

Speaking in German with her brother as translator, Mrs. Kline said:

"But now things are better in Czechoslovakia. My fellow-countrymen are very grateful to the United Nations Rehabilitation and Relief administration. Through UNRRA much help has been given us, and we have recuperated much more quickly.

"We have no rationing now, although textiles and goods in general are difficult to obtain. Food conditions, however, are improving constantly."

Her son Alvin said that during the five years of the war, neither he nor any relatives in this country had heard from his mother.

After the Russian and American armies met and Czechoslovakia was freed, a cable was received by relatives here, giving a list of survivors, among whom was named Mrs. Kline.

Shortly before, however, an American flier who had been shot down over Czechoslovakia and escaped from the country through the underground, brought with him a letter from Mrs. Kline, which he mailed to her son son Alvin. That was the first message to reveal that his mother was alive.

The Pan-American plane on which Mrs. Kline came to New York made stops in Brussels, Belgium; London; Shannon, Ireland, and Newfoundland.

Her arrival here marked the third trip to the United States. She previously had visited here in 1923 and 1932.

Lace, Ruffled and Pleated Skirts Highlight Fashions For Spring

By BARBARA BUNDSCHU

(United Press Fashion Writer)

NEW YORK — Skirt tiers that ruffle, skirt tiers of pleats and pretty lady hemline flounces of taffeta and lace are the most significant departures from wartime fashion in the spring costumes designed by Jo Copeland for Pattullo Modes, Inc.

And lace itself—Point Venice, Point Desprit and lovely bow and flower patterns—is an important new note in the collection shown for more than 100 newspaper fashion editors on the final day of the New York Dress Institute's semi-annual national press week.

A navy bolero suit sports a trim four-layer skirt of circular tiers. There are five tiers on the skirt of a jewel buttoned black crepe afternoon dress. And the flounces —wide hems usually caught up at one side of the front by hip drapery—appear on both street length and evening gowns.

Skirts remain slim despite Miss Copeland's obvious use of more material in pleats, and in easy cutting. Favorite skirts are a wrapped to the back one with a gracefully walking free edge, and one with side front drapery.

Spiral lines are a favorite of this designer. One navy afternoon dress has horizontal stripes of drawn work and wide stitched tucks run diagonally around the body, acquiring a rippled look as they run into the hemstitching. An alpaca dress achieves the spiral with gold buttons—from neck to underarm, around the back and across the opposite hip to center front.

Pretty hemlines return to a petticoat effect in one dark afternoon dress whose wrapped to the front skirt is edged with white lace to match its neckline trim.

Highlight of the Anthony Blotta collection were a group of beautiful belted great-coats with full, softly pleated skirts and wide shoulders. Many have a scarf-like adaption of the designer's favorite hood. There are bust length capes on coats and suits and dresses and long torso lines throughout the collection.

Patric's collection for Anna Miller emphasizes a tight, derriere-cupping skirt and a good deal of bustle and drapery at the same back hip spot.

There is a great deal of lace in this collection—in overskirts, top trims and also in pretty scarves over bare top dresses.

POSTPONED.

The meeting of the Happy Tymes club which was scheduled for Jan. 16 has been postponed until Jan. 23. Mrs. R. J. Elliott, Rock road, will be hostess.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

Mrs. Fred Bailey of Detroit, Mich. announces the engagement of her sister, Miss Ruth Glover Wood of this city and Crestline to Charles Edward Taylor of Mechanicsburg. The wedding will take place at the Wood residence, in Crestline Jan. 19. Miss Wood is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school while Mr. Taylor attended Wilberforce and Ohio State University and is employed at Wright Field.

GLAMOROUS PEACH.

The peaches you canned last summer can be used to make luscious peach melba. This dessert was originated in the early 1890's by the famous chef, Auguste Escoffier, in honor of the noted opera singer, Mme. Melba. Planning the menu for a party Mme. Melba was giving, the chef concocted the dessert of peaches, brown sugar, and ice cream. On a later occasion, Escoffier improved the dessert by adding puree of fresh raspberries mixed with a little sugar. Over this he sprinkled some finely shredded fresh almonds.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, Jan. 14.

Current conditions may be the aftermath of the exciting and confused state of affairs of recent conflicting circumstances. These were a strange combination of the adverse and dramatically fortuitous and promising circumstances. These vitally concerned the financial, business, professional and creative career but as well had radical reactions on domestic, social and romantic attachments. Under astute, studied and sagacious handling it may be possible to reap rich returns, in the face of lack of cooperation from superiors and a menace from treachery and dubious complications when the mentality seems confused.

Those whose birthday it is are advised to defer judgment as well as active operations concerning major ventures or propositions pending complete appraisal of underlying conditions as well as a shrewd analysis of basic foundations. This possibly on a program of "going it alone," since superiors seem to be lacking in a spirit of cooperation and others may be crafty, subtle and treacherous. With calm, rational and far-seeing vision, surprising or spectacular good fortune may be achieved. The intimate affairs are at stake as well as career and finance.

A child born on this day has many contradictions in its make-up, being at once impulsive, turbulent and emotional, but has its moments of doubt, depression and bewilderment, especially in crises.

SHRINKING WOOL.

Wool should be properly shrunk before it is made up, say clothing specialists of the Department of Agriculture.

They suggest pressing the entire piece of cloth with a steam iron. Hold and press with the weave, do not stretch or pull during the process.

Without a steam iron, roll the cloth in a damp sheet to dampen it. You can do this by dipping the sheet in water, wringing it out, and spreading it flat on a table and then placing the wool on it. Roll sheet and wool together firmly but not tightly. Then press wool on the wrong side under a dry press cloth with no pulling or stretching.

Authors Claim Contentment Lies at Home

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

(AP Newsfeatures Writer)

Modern woman, bewildered, unhappy, insecure, must abandon competition with men and return to the life which fits her—building the home—if the world's social ills are to be cured, psychiatrist Marynia F. Farnham and writer Ferdinand Lundberg believe.

Their joint book, "Modern Woman: The Lost Sex," (Harpers) finds that present-day life, the industrial age and modern household apparatus left women with little to do at home and made outside occupation popular.

The result, according to the authors, is that the whole sex has become confused and poorly adjusted and now is "the principal transmitting media of the disordered emotions that today are so widely spread throughout the world."

While a portion of their book on women's psychic ills reads like a Freudian textbook, couched in the patter of the profession, Dr. Farnham and Lundberg steadily maintain that "women cannot be regarded as any more similar to men than a spiral is to a straight line," and should cease trying to emulate men and men's accomplishments and return to "being women."

"The destruction of the home as a result of men's economic and technological exploits has bred deep unhappiness — not only in women but in society as a whole," they write. "The stage, indeed, has been set for general chaos and confusion which we are reaping today. The result of what happened to the home is neurosis on a wider scale than was seen before."

Today, the authors note, "what is still called the home is to a large extent a vacuum; nothing much of any consequence happens there." And the point they make is that millions of women are faced with deciding whether they should remain in the home with only nominal duties to perform or whether they should seek employment and careers in competition with men outside.

Destruction of home life has symptoms in the rising divorce rate, juvenile deliquency and many other evils of our time. They state that hardly more than one person in three is free of some sort of a neurotic character trait.

The feminist movement, which sought to have women considered the absolute equal of men, was misguided and led by neurotic women, they found, but failed to give women anything they sought in life. Neither did a part of the feminist movement—the single standard. Women are still attempting desperately to "find a compromise" to make up for the home of which they were deprived.

The two writers suggest that a general program be undertaken—headed by the government—for the rehabilitation of women. The first step would be public recognition of the "powerful role and special importance of mothers as transmitting agents of feelings, personality and character."

They would use much more psychotherapy—treatment of the mind by trained psychiatrists as we have physicians cure the body of ills—both on an individual and on a community basis. And the major spawning places of psychoneurotics, they state repeatedly, are our homes.

Dr. Farnham and Lundberg would create a federal department of welfare, with one of its functions the recognition of women who have produced healthy, useful well-adjusted citizens. Cash payments such as government subsidies should be paid to families to alleviate the heavy financial burden of rearing children.

Mothers should have more to do with the education of children, and if the authors had their way "all spinsters would be barred by law from having anything to do with the teaching of children on the ground of theoretical (usually real) emotional incompetence."

Finally, women should be encouraged to specialize in "nurturing activities," which the authors maintain are the ones in which the "psychically balanced woman finds the greatest satisfaction for her ego—"teaching, nursing doctoring, social service work, guidance, catering, decorating, play direction, furnishing, for examples.

"Women, it seems to us, would do well to recapture those functions in which they have demonstrated superior capacity," they say. "Those are in general the nurturing function around the home."

Finally, spinsters should be encouraged to marry; bachelors of more than 30 should be urged to undergo psychotherapy and be considered by the public as a dubious social quantity."

Barclay on Bridge

"IMAGINATION is absolutely necessary to reach some of the best No Trump game contracts." That statement was repeated time and again by Gratz M. Scott, first general manager of the famous Cavendish Club in New York, whose words are still rememberel years after he passed on to that Club where you eventually meet all your good friends again. He constantly helped younger players to recognize those situations in which you should count on your partner to have stoppers in some unbid suit.

This was a tragedy in various respects. Since every finesse worked, North made an unbid small slam, following the club 2 lead. North argued that he was not strong enough to leap to 5-Diamonds. South insisted that he had done enough bidding on his modest hand and could raise no further after North's 4-Diamonds.

Then West broke into it. "You got away with five finesses," he pointed out, "one in clubs, two in hearts and in spades two or perhaps three, if you want to count them as three. If I had my partner's holding in either spades or hearts, we would have taken two more tricks and you couldn't even have made a game, much less a slam."

East chimed in then. "What's the matter with the imagination of you fellows?" he asked. "South should have counted on North to have clubs probably stopped and should have called 2-No Trumps instead of 3-Diamonds, and North should have raised to 3-No Trumps. But after his 3-Diamonds, North should have counted on South to stop hearts and should have bid 3-No Trumps. Good imagination would tell you that either surmise would have been logical in view of what else the bidder held. Note that if either hearts or spades broke well, the No Trump game was sure, whereas both suits had to break for a diamond game to be made."

MORROW FAIR BOARD MEETS

MT. GILEAD — Department heads for the 1947 Morrow county fair were announced last week following a meeting of the Morrow county fair board. Appointments made by the new president, Clay Renz, include the following:

Speed, L. L. Blayney; horses, T. C. Curl; cattle, Walter Hardesty; sheep, Roy Linn; swine, Virgil Crist; poultry, J. C. Eckert; farm products, Carroll Lloyd; canned goods, D. P. Chambers; women's department, Fred Brown; superintendent of grandstand, Romie Thatcher; machinery, C. N. Dildine; feed and straw, L. L. Blayney, and townships, Gar Smith.

Also named were the delegates to the state convention Wednesday and Thursday. They are Earl Hershner, Virgil Crist and Glenn Brown, the new secretary.

February 8 was the date set for the revision committee to meet. It is made up of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Linn; Mr. and Mrs. Romie Thatcher, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hardesty, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hershner.

Brown said he had not been notified whether the state had approved August 14, 15 and 16 as the dates for this year's fair. He added that a night fair would again be held this year.

Ashland School To Hear Artist

ASHLAND—Paul Manship, noted American sculptor, will be presented at McDowell auditorium Jan. 20 as the fourth in the Ashland college concert - lecture series.

The sculptor has been recognized for his distinguished work by membership in the American Academy of Arts and Letters; fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences; academician of the National Academy of Design, and member of the National Sculpture society and of the Legion of Honor.

For his appearance here the sculptor will make an address and demonstrate the art of sculpture before his audience.

ALFORD REELECTED TO WILLARD BOARD

WILLARD—Donald Alford was been reelected president of the Willard school board, it was announced today. Mrs. Delford Ellis has been appointed secretary to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of John A. Wallace.

At a reorganization meeting last week, Kenneth Milligan was reelected vice president. Committee appointments were: Milligan, building and grounds; Wallace, finance; Clinton Lash, rules and transportation, and Richard Jump, teachers.

Alford said that for the first time since 1910, Willard schools are free of bonded debt. The last bond against the school district was retired on Sept. 15.

CHARGED by the French with having planned the revolt that has been raging in north Indo-China, President Ho Chi Minh (above), head of the Viet Nam republic, is shown here as he played host to newspapermen after the creation of the government. Ho, in turn, says the French colonial policy is responsible for his country's trouble. (International)

WILLARD PLANS HOSPITAL ANNEX

WILLARD—The city's legal department today was preparing for the issuance of bonds and the appointment of a building commission for construction of a $110,000 annex to the Willard Municipal hospital.

City council at its meeting last week ordered the city solicitor to prepare legislation authorizing the bond issue, which was approved by voters in the November election.

The solicitor also will draw up an ordinance authorizing the appointment of a building commission which will supervise construction of the annex.

Mayor R. J. Vetter said it may not be possible to begin construction of the addition for "some months," but he believed it "advisable" to prepare the legal formalities.

Ex-GIs Requested To Attend Meeting

ASHLAND — Veterans in or near Jeromesville have been invited to attend a meeting at the Jeromesville high school Thursday night when the agricultural training program will be outlined.

Should a sufficient number of veterans indicate interest in the program, classes will be organized in vocational agriculture and self-proprietorship training.

FLXIBLE TO REBUILD

LOUDONVILLE — The plans for rebuilding Plant No. 1 of the Flxible company, which was destroyed by fire Jan. 2, are being prepared, Hugh H. Young, president and general manager of the firm, said today.
